FRANKENSTEIN, THE RESTORED VERSION (1931)

DIRECTOR: James Whales PRODUCER: Carl Laemmle Jr. MAKE-UP: Jack Pierce CAST: Boris Karloff, Colin Clive, Mae Clarke, Edward Van Sloan, John Boles, Marilyn Harris and Dwight Frye

For the first time in 50 years, this classic adaptation of Mary Shelly's novel can be seen the way its director originally intended it. Universal Pictures has restored previously excised footage to create a definitive FRANKENSTEIN movie. Most notably, this new version includes a recently-unearthed section detailing the exact circumstances involving Boris Karloff's fatal encounter with the little girl by the lake (played by Marilyn Harris).

This key addition sheds an entirely new light on things — as it portrays Frankenstein's monster in the tragically sympathetic vein Whales undoubtedly envisioned for the creature all along.

Intriguingly enough, this aforementioned footage was thought to be too strong for audiences in 1931 — what with Frankenstein's monster watching helplessly as the little girl he tried to set afloat drowns accidentally before his very eyes.

Now, this cornerstone scene is finally available to modern audiences on home-video — along with five other restored cuts. One of these includes a controversial line of dialogue uttered by Colin Clive at the height of the creation scene (during which the mad doctor-kins himself to God). Other restored cuts involve an early melee between Karloff and his keepers plus a brief shot of Edward Van Sloan injecting the monster with a hypodermic needle. Another added scene shows the hunchbacked Dwight Frye tormenting Karloff's monster with a torch.

Still missing are two establishing long shots of the opening funeral. And yet, such a slight is decidedly minor in the face of what Universal has accomplished here. For while the total elapsed time of these additional scenes is relatively brief, their impact on Mr. Whale's film overall is monumental. The characters of both Frankenstein and his monster are greatly enhanced as a result of the restored footage — especially in terms of their motivation and depth.

In fact, viewing FRANKENSTEIN with the missing scenes back in place, one can't help but be struck by the artful simplicity and texture of the film as a whole. As with all the great horror productions, FRANKENSTEIN examines themes both supernatural and humanistic. As such, Whales' adaptation is a joyously timeless outing in the realm of Hollywood's great gothics. B & W, 72 Minutes.

LONG DAY'S JOURNEY INTO NIGHT (1962)

DIRECTOR: Sidney Lumet PRODUCER: Ely Landau SCREENPLAY: Eugene O'Neill
CINEMATOGRAPHER: Boris Kaufman CAST: Katharine Hepburn, Ralph Richardson, Jason Robards, Dean Stockwell and Jean Barr

The play that Eugene O'Neill penned "in tears and blood" is faithfully and reverentially transferred to film by Sidney Lumet. The screenplay, itself, is a virtual mirror-image of the original stage production — the theory being that no scribe could possibly improve on the literary genius of LONG DAY'S JOURNEY INTO NIGHT.

Lumet was correct. By staying true to the playwright's text, he delivers the cinematic equivalent of a gut-punch. O'Neill's unrelenting drama, plus a stellar cast which reads like a Who's Who of thespian legend, combines to make JOURNEY one of the most powerfully affecting and emotionally exhausting film-dramas in recent years.

Ralph Richardson and Katharine Hepburn star as James and Mary Tyrone. He is a tyrannical and mean-spirited former actor. She's a drug-addict fighting a losing battle with morphine. Dean Stockwell plays their youngest son. Fashioned after O'Neill himself, he is a fledgling writer who might be dying of tuberculosis. Jason Robards is Stockwell's older brother — an alcoholic burn-out who tragically personifies the downside of all his sibling's grandest dreams.

The action-at-hand revolves around one day in the life of the Tyrone clan — a day in which years of resentment, fear and frailty play out before the uncompromising eye of Boris Kaufman's camera. And, at 170 minutes, Lumet has plenty of time to explore all the nuances of O'Neill's explosive narrative.

In this respect, Lumet's JOURNEY isn't so much an adaptation as it is a celebration. It is a theatrical time-capsule in which O'Neill's tempestuous autobiography has been lovingly set. And while it doesn't always make for easy viewing, LONG DAY'S JOURNEY INTO NIGHT remains an immensely memorable outing — showcasing uniformly outstanding performances by some of the finest actors ever to grace stage or screen. Indeed, all four of the movie's key performers were honored for their work herein at the 1962 Cannes Film Festival. Robards, of course, portrays O'Neill's tortured protagonists even now. Such is the resonance of the great playwright's work. And Lumet, much to his credit, has captured that greatness, on film, for posterity. B & W, 170 Minutes.

ON THE WATERFRONT (1954)

DIRECTOR: Elia Kazan SCREENWRITER: Budd Schulberg CINEMATOGRAPHER: Boris Kaufman CAST: Marlon Brando, Eva Marie Saint, Karl Malden, Lee J. Cobb, Rod Steiger

In his long-standing tradition of bringing explosive stage actors from the Broadway stage to the Hollywood screen, director Elia Kazan chose 1951 to thrust a broodingly young Marlon Brando upon audiences nationwide in the movie adaptation of A STREETCAR NAMED DESIRE. Just three years later, Kazan turned Brando into a superstar with his 1954 production of ON THE WATERFRONT. Brando's tortured performance as Terry Malloy, a former boxing "contender" reduced to union strong-arming by his corrupt older brother, is a textbook example of Method acting (as practiced by those who made up The Actor's Studio in New York). Thus, ON THE WATERFRONT, garnered eight Academy awards en route to securing its richly deserved reputation as one of the most potent films of the 1950s.

WATERFRONT remains a powerfully idealistic study of union racketeering and personal integrity. Brando, as our longshoreman hero, sees firsthand the evil tactics of his waterfront bosses (led by an appropriately ruthless Lee J. Cobb). Karl Malden wants Brando (and others) to testify. But, to do so would surely prove fatal. Add to this the hanging-in-the-balance affections of Eva Marie Saint and you've got an undeniable recipe for heat — as Brando's Malloy is forced to wrestle with his conscience (and his cronies) to resolve what is clearly an intolerable situation on the docks.

Oscars abounded: With Brando and Saint each getting acting nods and Kazan landing a best director statuette. Academy awards for best screenplay, editing, cinematography and art direction followed — with Best Picture honors capping things off. The pic is based on "true story" accounts by Malcolm Johnson. And while many have criticized Kazan for altering waterfront reality by letting Brando triumph over his union overlords, the fact remains that ON THE WATERFRONT tells an uncompromising tale of the man's mission to right a terrible wrong. In this respect, the movie succeeds, as a parable in a way that it never could have as mere docudrama. It is, quite simply, a classic narrative of personal redemption and justice — brought to life by an ensemble of great actors, most of whom give some of the finest performances under Kazan's deft directional touch. B & W, 108 Minutes.

I N T E R T A I N M E N T

DIRECTOR: Mark Sandrich PRODUCER: Pandro S. Berman CINEMATOGRAPHER: David Abel & Vernon Walker SCREENWRITER: Dwight Taylor & Allan Scott MUSIC: Irving Berlin CHOREOGRAPHY: Hermes Pan CAST: Fred Astaire, Ginger Rogers, Edward Everett Horton, Eric Blore, Helen Broderick, Erik Rhodes

Easily the best of the marvelous Fred Astaire/Ginger Rogers musicals, TOP HAT has all the earmarks of great '30s cinema. The music and lyrics are by Irving Berlin, the choreography by Hermes Pan and the dancing, of course, is by the master himself. Astaire is magical as an American hoofer in London — tapping his way into Ginger Rogers's reluctant heart. Of course, when a hilariously frustrating case of mistaken identity threatens to block the course of true love, an ever-optimistic Astaire must dance to a different tune in order to clear his name of phantom charges. His efforts very nearly landed TOP HAT Best Picture honors in 1935.

Nevertheless, TOP HAT still represents another feather in Astaire's tall-crowned cap. His easy-going and improvisational approach to dance is as charming herein as the dancer's urbane wit and sophisticated patter. Rogers, for her part, is a vastly capable partner. Together, the two are poetry in motion. And it is this, plus a competently comedic plot, that makes TOP HAT so much fun. Astute supporting players round out the action — along with hit tunes like "Cheek to Cheek" and "Isn't It A Lovely Day?"

All in all, TOP HAT is perhaps the most collectible of the ten Astaire/Rogers musicals. It catches cinema's most graceful couple in top form. And, happily, 50 years has done nothing to dilute the film's aesthetic delight. B & W, 100 Minutes.

TOP HAT (1935)

DIRECTOR: Wolfgang Petersen PRODUCER: Gunter Rohrbach SCREENWRITER: Wolfgang Petersen CINEMATOGRAPHER: Jost Vacano CAST: Jurgen Prochnow, Herbert Gronemeyer, Klaus Wennemann, Hubertus Bengsch and Martin Semmelrogge

Nominated for six Academy Awards in 1981, DAS BOOT has the auspicious distinction of being one of the most expensive movies ever to come out of West Germany. Happily, it is also one of the best — a taut and suspenseful war-time narrative in which director Wolfgang Petersen paints for us a grimly vivid portrait of life and death aboard a German U-boat during World War II. In several respects, the production is strongly reminiscent of David Lean's THE BRIDGE ON THE RIVER KWAI — in as much as both works strive to depict the futility of war and the high cost of self-sacrifice.

Technically, DAS BOOT is a gem of cinematic execution. The action takes place almost exclusively in and around the cramped corridors of a German submarine. Jurgen Prochnow is excellent as the no-nonsense captain. His crew is an ensemble of sailors both proud and petrified. We grow to care about these men deeply as various dire events conspire against them — often turning victory into a horrifically empty experience. This, even as the bloated oaths of the Nazi High Command extol our U-boat heroes to ever-greater acts of maritime madness.

Available now to Blackhawk customers in the vastly superior (and subtitled) German, DAS BOOT is a rare look at WWII from the enemy perspective. It is sensitive and supremely fair. And, all politics aside, it is a powerfully gripping tale of war on the high seas — as historically enriching as it is entertaining. R-rating, Color, 149 Minutes.

DAS BOOT (1981)

DIRECTOR: John Ford PRODUCER: Merian C. Cooper SCREENWRITER: Frank S. Nugent CINEMATOGRAPHER: Winton C. Hoch & Archie Stout CAST: John Wayne, Maureen O'Hara, Barry Fitzgerald, Ward Bond, Victor McLaglen, Mildred Natwick, Jack MacGowan and Arthur Shields

In what is undoubtedly, his most popular non-Western film, John Ford paints a warm and sentimental picture of his ancestral Ireland in THE QUIET MAN. John Wayne stars as an ex-boxer with a murky past. Returning to the land of his native birth, he quickly falls hopelessly in love with a fiery local beauty (played with passionate abandon by lovely Maureen O'Hara). The courtship that follows is far from routine — despite the best efforts of Wayne's drunken marriage-broker (Barry Fitzgerald) and a conspiracy of well-meaning meddlers (featuring some of the finest character actors in Irish cinema).

Of course, only when O'Hara's disapproving brother decides to throw in his own two-cents do things really get heated. And it is here that director Ford employs enviable skill as he walks a fine line between dramatic irony and broad comedy en route to a crowd-pleasing finale that not only exorcises the skeletons in Wayne's closet, but cures the Duke's culture-shock as well.

Like most John Ford heroes, Wayne's boxer is a relatively simple man — a reluctant loner who longs for camaraderie, but not at the cost of his soul. As for Wayne's performance herein, it's refreshingly loose and unexpected. Ford challenges his superstar by placing him in a vice-like quandary that only we viewers can fully appreciate.

But Wayne handles it with great style and wit — merging true grit Americanism with touching naivete to produce a wonderfully memorable screen persona. As for Ford himself, the busy director won the last of his six Oscars for his work on THE QUIET MAN. As such, the film represents a milestone achievement in cinema. It is a full-spirited masterwork that fans of either Ford or Wayne would be doubly proud to possess.

Blackhawk customers can now purchase a totally restored version of THE QUIET MAN. Republic Pictures has spent $60,000 to revitalize the original negative and create a brand-new 1-inch master. The result is a vastly improved technicolor print — giving this videotape a clarity and vibrancy not seen since THE QUIET MAN's premier in 1952. Color, 129 Minutes.

NORTH BY NORTHWEST (1959)

DIRECTOR: Alfred Hitchcock CAST: Cary Grant, Eva Marie Saint, James Mason and Martin Landau

Originally conceived to fulfill Hitchcock's desire to stage a climatic chase across the face(s) of Mount Rushmore, NORTH BY NORTHWEST is considered by many to be one of the director's most entertaining American thrillers. Cary Grant plays the archetypal victim in a Hitchcockian case of mistaken identity. As such, our hero is forced to race about the country helter-skelter — all in a high-stakes bid to clear his name of wrongful murder charges. Of course, to do this, Grant must first descend ever deeper into the quagmire of intrigue that has suddenly become his cinematic lot.

Screenwriter Ernest Lehman's thrilling story and Hitchcock's direction of the several memorable scenes makes for fine suspense. Chief among these scenes is Grant's encounter with a homicidal crop-duster and Eva Marie Saint's cliff-hanging acrobatics on-or-about Theodore Roosevelt's chiseled nose. This, plus Mr. Grant's effortless knack for juxtaposing sophisticated geniality with quick-witted action, makes for a truly enjoyable thriller — the likes of which Mr. Hitchcock enjoys a veritable monopoly on to this very day (despite the high-gloss efforts of many well-schooled imitators).

And while NORTH BY NORTHWEST is similar, in many respects, to Hitchcock's earlier work in THE 39 STEPS, (see page 38), this 1959 outing is noteworthy because it captures the director at the height of his cinematic powers — capping a decade which saw Hitchcock enjoying a heartening renaissance.

Indeed, with the commercial and critical success of NORTH BY NORTHWEST, Hitchcock firmly established his place in Hollywood history — claiming his rightful legacy as one of the cinema's most illustrious directors. As such, NORTH BY NORTHWEST, would surely make the perfect flagship for any Hitchcock collection. Color, 136 Minutes.

SONS OF THE DESERT (1933)

DIRECTOR: William A. Seiter CAST: Stan Laurel, Oliver Hardy, Charley Chase, Dorothy Christy, Mae Busch and Lucien Littlefield

As in so many of the best Laurel and Hardy comedies, SONS OF THE DESERT spins off from a hilariously brainless plight — only to grow increasingly complicated as Stan and Ollie struggle in vain to extricate themselves from ever-more outrageous predicaments.

In this case, the slapstick misadventures stem from Stan and Ollie's half-baked scheme to attend a Chicago convention without their wives' permission. An elaborate ruse is constructed — which centers around a fictitious trip to Hawaii. Of course, when the ship on which our heroes are supposed to be sailing sinks in the Pacific, Stan and Ollie must scramble to explain the "miracle" that has brought about their own safe return.

The hijinks that follow are classic examples of Laurel and Hardy slapstick. Flatware flies and pratfalls abound as cinema's most successful comedic pairing flee hither-and-yon in a madcap bid to escape the wrath of their no-nonsense brides. In the end, it is Stan who discovers that, in marriage, honesty is the best policy. Ollie, naturally, can do nothing but personify the stoic exasperation that is his cinematic due.

Critics uniformly count SONS OF THE DESERT among Stan and Ollie's slickest comedies. As such, the film is a must for any aficionado of the duo's buffoonish humor. Filmed in 1933, this production is one of many made under the tutelage of long-time Laurel and Hardy producer Hal Roach — the man commonly credited for first teaming Stan and Ollie in 1927. B & W, 69 Minutes.

MR. SMITH GOES TO WASHINGTON (1939)

DIRECTOR: Frank Capra PRODUCER: Frank Capra SCREENWRITER: Sidney Buchman CINEMATOGRAPHER: Joseph Walker CAST: James Stewart, Jean Arthur, Claude Rains, Thomas Mitchell, Edward Arnold, Guy Kibbee, Eugene Pallette, Beulah Bondi, Harry Carey, H.B. Warner, Astrid Allwyn, Ruth Donnelly, Charles Lane and Porter Hall

What Capra started in 1936 with MR. DEEDS GOES TO TOWN, the director expands upon considerably in this James Stewart vehicle about an idealistic scoutmaster-turned-senator. In this capacity, Stewart learns first-hand about corruption and graft on Capitol Hill. The impassioned filibuster that follows is, of course, a historic moment in cinema. But that is just a small part of the charm of MR. SMITH GOES TO WASHINGTON. The rest lies on Capra's deft directorial touch and Stewart's painful transformation from naive victim to crusading avenger over the course of 2+ hours.

Interestingly, response to this movie was so powerful that many Congressmen — most of whom disliked Capra's work for all the wrong reasons — briefly contemplated retaliatory legislation against Hollywood. Of course, once it became clear how popular MR. SMITH was with voters nationwide, that plan was quickly scuttled. Stewart's scoutmaster would have appreciated the irony. No doubt Capra did too.

Indeed, like all his best films, the joy of MR. SMITH is the way Capra allows the little man to be victorious in a way that he seldom is in real-life. Memorable performances abound, along with the high-gloss execution that is Capra's trademark. Jean Arthur is fine as the jaded secretary who is shocked by Stewart's naivete. Claude Rains and Guy Kibbee also deserve kudos for their work.

And, of course, hats off to the requisite Capra charm and happy resolution. It's all great fun. But, frankly, there's a serious message here also — as timely now as it was in 1939. Namely that a government by the people, and for the people, is unquestionably the best kind for all concerned. B & W, 129 Minutes.

IT'S A WONDERFUL LIFE (1946)

DIRECTOR: Frank Capra CAST: James Stewart, Donna Reed, Lionel Barrymore, Ward Bond, Thomas Mitchell

Strangely enough, this Frank Capra classic did not work well for many post-WWII viewers. And yet, in the decades following its original release, IT'S A WONDERFUL LIFE has been joyously reborn as a landmark achievement in popular cinema — thanks mostly to the enthusiastic response of baby boomers whose initial viewing of Capra's yuletide production was on television.

The story, of course, revolves around James Stewart — a good man who runs a faltering smalltown building-and-loan association. Lionel Barrymore's villainous bid to foreclose on Stewart drives our hero to the brink of suicide. Only then does Stewart receive a vision of what life would be like for family and friends without him. The epiphany that follows literally changes Stewart's outlook.

IT'S A WONDERFUL LIFE is a bittersweet, warm-hearted film. Its message is so uplifting in the context of today's too-cynical world as to completely counteract whatever heavy-handedness might have marred the movie for audiences in 1946. Indeed, Capra's touching sensibility has never been more potentially therapeutic than it is right now. And, with the ultra-clear 35mm print now available to Blackhawk customers via Republic Pictures, the film has never been more worthwhile to own. Indeed, at 131 minutes, this is the most complete version of IT'S A WONDERFUL LIFE to be found anywhere. B & W, 131 Minutes.

HOLIDAY INN (1942)

DIRECTOR: Mark Sandrich PRODUCER: Mark Sandrich SCREENWRITER: Claude Binyon & Elmer Rice CINEMATOGRAPHER: David Abel MUSIC: Irving Berlin CAST: Bing Crosby, Fred Astaire, Walter Abel, Marjorie Reynolds, Virginia Dale, Louise Beavers, Irving Bacon and James Bell

Bing Crosby and Fred Astaire are innkeepers who fall for the same woman. A resulting love-triangle sets the stage for a bevy of delightful Irving Berlin show-tunes. Chief among these is the Oscar-winning "White Christmas" and "Easter Parade." The plot is light, but full of fun for all. The movie's success at the boxoffice even spawned a partial remake in 1954 (WHITE CHRISTMAS). B & W, 101 Minutes.

THE BELLS OF ST. MARY'S (1945)

DIRECTOR: Leo McCarey PRODUCER: Dudley Nichols SCREENWRITER: Leo McCarey CAST: Bing Crosby, Ingrid Bergman, Ruth Donnelly, Henry Travers, William Gargan, Joan Carroll, Martha Sleeper and Rhys Williams

This sequel to his own GOING MY WAY marked one of McCarey's biggest box-office successes — thanks partially to the director's sentimental touch, as well as the Billboard status of star Bing Crosby. In fact, McCarey and Crosby both won Oscars for GOING MY WAY even as filming for THE BELLS OF ST. MARY'S was in progress. This, plus a stellar performance by Ingrid Bergman as the Mother Superior that Crosby's Father O'Malley must win-over, makes for a film of unusual depth and feeling.

The story, centers on Crosby's arrival at a run-down Catholic school run by Bergman. Therein, our spiritual heroes engage in a friendly rivalry en route to saving Bergman's school via the solicited gift of a new building. The acting fits McCarey's players like a favorite glove — creating a warm ambiance that spills over into every facet of the production. Sentimental overtones abound, with Crosby crooning "Aren't You Glad You're You?" to make the mood complete. This is a must-see for any fan of either McCarey or Crosby — as it catches both men near the top of their cinematic popularity. B & W, 126 Minutes.

WHITE CHRISTMAS (1954)

DIRECTOR: Michael Curtiz PRODUCER: Robert Emmett Dolan SCREENWRITER: Norman Krasna, Norman Panama & Melvin Frank CINEMATOGRAPHER: Loyal Griggs MUSIC: Irving Berlin CAST: Bing Crosby, Danny Kaye, Rosemary Clooney, Vera-Ellen, Dean Jagger, Mary Wickes, Sig Rumann and Grady Sutton

After serving as musical director for Mark Sandrich's vastly successful HOLIDAY INN, Robert Emmett Dolan turned producer and tried to revamp the 1942 box-office smash in WHITE CHRISTMAS. The return of Bing Crosby as Dolan's leading man gave CHRISTMAS the electricity it needed to leave a noteworthy mark on film history. The ever-pleasing music and lyrics of Irving Berlin didn't hurt either — along with the presence of Danny Kaye (with Crosby) atop theater-marquees nationwide.

The story, basically, revolves around the efforts of Crosby and Kaye to boost the sagging popularity of a winter resort run by an old army buddy. One of Berlin's many tunes ("Count Your Blessings Instead of Sheep") garnered an Oscar nomination for the composer. This, plus the film's durably light-hearted plot, have combined over the years to turn WHITE CHRISTMAS into something of a yuletide fixture — a reputation the movie well deserves. Bing Crosby's first portrayal of easy-going Father O'Malley won the actor a much-deserved Best Actor nod in 1944 — one of many Oscars that GOING MY WAY garnered that year. The story has to do with Crosby's heart-warming efforts to win-over a pastor whom he is about to replace in one of New York's more depressed parishes. Barry Fitzgerald is the pastor. His performance netted him a Best Supporting Actor statuette. Leo McCarey won for both writing and direction. Great music and touching drama rounds out the package, making GOING MY WAY a Best Picture of truly timeless merit. B & W, 130 Minutes.

THE BISHOP'S WIFE (1947)

DIRECTOR: Henry Koster PRODUCER: Samuel Goldwyn SCREENWRITER: Robert E. Sherwood & Leonardo Bercovici CINEMATOGRAPHER: Gregg Toland CAST: Cary Grant, Loretta Young, David Niven, James Gleason, Elsa Lanchester, Monty Woolley, Gladys Cooper, Sara Haden and Regis Toomey

David Niven is an ambitious bishop who has temporarily lost sight of the more spiritual aspects of his job. Cary Grant is the debonair angel sent to help Niven find his way again. Grant does this by helping Niven re-evaluate his priorities. Specifically, in regard to an expensive cathedral Niven is trying to build.

The warmly parabolic romp that follows is the quintessential movie that "they just don't make anymore." Director Koster brings the whole thing off with a surplus of charm and style. His visually pleasing, craftsmanlike approach to filmmaking — coupled with the inherently effortless wit of Niven and Grant — helps to make THE BISHOP'S WIFE a pleasingly slick screen effort overall.

Good supporting players abound — led by the beautiful Loretta Young as Niven's neglected spouse. Nominated for Best Picture and chock full of spiritual warmth, THE BISHOP'S WIFE is Hollywood at its feel-good best — a perfect film for the entire family. B & W, 108 Minutes.

DIRECTOR: George Seaton PRODUCER: William Perlberg SCREENWRITER: George Seaton CAST: Natalie Wood, Edmund Gwenn, Maureen O'Hara, Gene Lockhart, John Payne, Porter Hall and William Frawley

Based on Valentine Davies' classic fable, this warm-hearted Christmas fantasy tells the tale of a department store Santa out to prove himself to a young Natalie Wood. Edmund Gwenn snared an Oscar for his endearing performance as the man who would be Kris Kringle — while Seaton and Davies each nabbed writing statuettes.

Available now in both color and black-and-white, MIRACLE ON 34TH STREET has evolved over the years into a veritable tradition for families at Christmas. Screen historians know it as the movie which gave Elia Kazan's GENTLEMAN'S AGREEMENT a run for its money in the 1947 Best Picture race. The movie also marked the screen debut of six-time Oscar nominee Thelma Ritter — along with a funny bit-part for the young Jack Albertson. But children only know its magic. ## John Wayne Takes 'Em On!

Here are five of the best John Wayne, WWII-era movies at an unbeatable price. These are classic, morale building films that helped make America proud.

Flying Leathernecks (1951)

John Wayne, Robert Ryan

The World War II battle for Guadalcanal is also the setting of a leadership tug-of-war between fighter squadron leaders Wayne and Ryan. 102 min. Color
VNO8004 $19.95

Sands of Iwo Jima (1949)

This was John Wayne's first Oscar-nominated performance (and his last until True Grit).

It is the Duke at his most macho, bullet-biting best—as a marine sergeant molding raw recruits into fighting men during World War II in the Pacific. This was the "Platoon" of that period in that the SANDS OF IWO JIMA was one of the first realistic depictions of the ferocity of battle during WWII. Actual combat footage from the Pacific was weaved into the film.

The scene showing the famous raising of the flag on Mt. Suribachi not only used the actual flag from that historic moment, but also three of the surviving marines who raised the flag.

For Wayne fans, this film is the best way to remember one of the most revered actor-heros of our time. 109 min.

Here are nine well crafted documentaries, done on or around the time of World War II. These films were done to inform and persuade Americans about their country's involvement in the war. This is wartime film-making at its best, providing you with an interesting perspective on that period in history.

Prelude to War (1942)

Directed by Frank Capra

From the documentary series Why We Fight, it was Frank Capra's task to give Americans a "reason to fight." He did so by using primarily captured enemy propaganda films, recutting them, turning their own films against them. The Why We Fight films revolutionized documentary film-making. Academy Award Winner 1942: Best Documentary. 54 min. B&W
VRP7562 $19.95

Stilwell Road (1947)

Narrated by Ronald Reagan

Stilwell Road chronicles one of the greatest campaigns of World War II, led by General Joseph "Vinegar Joe" Stilwell who headed the fight against the Japanese in Burma. Ronald Reagan narrates this story of an Army General caught between the fighting and the politics of war. 51 min. B&W
VRP7785 $19.95

The World at War (1943)

Narrated by Paul Stewart

The World at War recounts the international unrest that led to America's involvement in World War II. No scenes were re-created. The film used was taken from newsreel sources as well as captured enemy materials. 44 min. B&W

Franklin D. Roosevelt, Declaration of War

On December 7, 1941, the Japanese launched their infamous attack upon Pearl Harbor and other military bases in the South Pacific. War had come to America! For the first time since April of 1917, Congress was called into emergency session to hear a President of the United States ask that it declare war upon another nation.

"No matter how long it may take us to overcome this premeditated invasion, the American people in their righteous might will win through to absolute victory!" And, of course, the viewer can also see and hear President Roosevelt as he coins the phrase that has become synonymous with Pearl Harbor: "... a date which will live in infamy ..." 9 min. B&W

World War II: The Pacific Theatre (1941-45)

A compilation taken from actual Movietone Newsreel footage of World War II. Movietone, alone among all newsreels, secured authentic scenes of the devastation of the bombing of Pearl Harbor. Next, Franklin D. Roosevelt declares war in 1941. Japanese kamikaze raids demonstrate some of the most frightening manifestations of man's destructive capabilities during the war. Next, the invasion of Iwo Jima as filmed by Navy, Coast Guard and Marine photographers. Witness the battle as the Marines slowly push their way from the beachhead into the island. Military films show the atomic bomb being dropped on Hiroshima: blinding light, a ball of fire, a whirlpool of elemental fires rising to 60,000 feet, the shock and sound with boiling clouds. Finally, the surrender of Japan in 1945. 55 min. B&W

Westerns: Roy Rogers and Gene Autry

Twilight in the Sierras (1950)

Roy Rogers and his sweetheart Dale Evans are weighed down by Estelita Rodriguez and moronic comedy relief Pat Brady in this story about state parole officer, Roy and his two-fisted battles with a group of counterfeiters. Not as good as most of the series, this one runs a long (for a Roy Rogers) sixty-seven minutes and was filmed in Trucolor. The offspring of silent star House Peters and hulking heavy Fred Kohler have parts in this later entry, and Foy Willing and the boys do the pickin' and the yodelin'. 67 min. Color

Hedda Hopper's Hollywood

Comprised of six separate programs, HEDDA HOPPER'S HOLLYWOOD presents a fascinating glimpse of the glamorous film capitol during the years 1941 and 1942.

More than just glimpses of Hollywood people, Hedda offers many longer-than-average visits with celebrities. There are rare extensive scenes with Hollywood's greats. You'll visit with an aging William S. Hart at his Hills of the Winds Ranch; you'll enjoy a session with Kay Kyser, his orchestra and the entire gang, including Ishkabibble and Ginny Sims, as they do a production number; you'll accompany William Farnum as he calls on the Hoppers; and you'll watch Mary Pickford turning the first shovel at the about-to-be-constructed Hollywood Retirement Home.

You'll witness a lengthy segment on the training of Hollywood dogs; you'll accompany Gary Cooper and Ernest Hemingway on a hunting trip; you'll enjoy Jane Withers' birthday party; you'll laugh as Bob Hope and Elsie Janis entertain WWII soldiers.

Celebrities abound throughout! We see such luminaries as: Warner Baxter, Freddie Bartholomew, Frances Dee, Jean Hersholt, Arline Judge, Buddy Rogers, Betty Grable, George Raft, Joe E. Brown, Tom Tyler, Ann Miller, Ronald Colman, Bobby Breen, Bobs Watson, Edith Fellows, Bobby Jordan, Dickie Moore, Adolphe Menjou, Reginald Denny, Ian Hunter, Joan Davis, Lola Lane, Anita Louise, Mack Sennett, Claudette Colbert, Joan Bennett and more, more, more.

Classic film buffs will relish and revel in this exceedingly rare, exclusive Blackhawk release which rolls the clock back 45 years to give you an inside look at Hollywood during the early WWII years.

TYCOON

Tycoon (1947)

John Wayne, Laraine Day, Sir Cedric Hardwicke

Alexander (Hardwicke), an industrial tycoon, contracts with Johnny Munroe (Wayne) to build a railroad from his mines in the Andes to the coast. Johnny wants to bridge a river, but Alexander insists on a shorter line involving a tunnel. Johnny becomes attached to Maura (Day), Alexander's daughter. Maura slips away for a rendezvous with Munroe despite her father's objections. When they are found the tycoon decrees an immediate marriage to satisfy his ideas of honor. Alexander decides to break Munroe by holding up supplies. One day when half the tunnel caves in and a worker is killed Johnny deliberately dynamites the tunnel and proceeds to build the bridge. When a mountain storm imperils the bridge site it takes a Herculean effort, but most of the bridge is saved and Munroe wins Alexander's respect. 120 min.

Douglas Fairbanks, Mary Astor

As the title implies, Don Q, Son of Zorro was intended as a sequel to Douglas Fairbank's first costume swashbuckler, The Mark of Zorro, which appeared five years and an equal number of films before.

Fairbanks plays the role of the father, Zorro, as well as the son, Don Q, and two other characters in the film. The trick is accomplished by skillful cutting to give the illusion that Zorro and Don Q are in the same scenes, when in fact the scenes were shot separately.

Jeremiah Johnson (1972)

Robert Redford, Will Geer, directed by Sydney Pollack

Robert Redford plays Jeremiah Johnson, a simple man who has no taste for the cities. He grows from a "greenhorn" into an experienced hunter who has quickened his senses with time spent in the mountains. Jeremiah Johnson gives a sense of humanness to a genre that had, up until its release, spent most of its history reworking the same myths. ### The Bridge on the River Kwai (1957)

William Holden, Alec Guinness, Jack Hawkins, Sessue Hayakawa, James Donald

More than an anti-war film, The Bridge on the River Kwai is an epic achievement which crossbreeds numerous elements slickly executed. The end result is a work of great ironic power. Indeed, when James Donald surveys the aftermath of Kwai's awesome finale, grimly muttering "madness, madness," one is instantly reminded of Marlon Brando's last words in Apocalypse Now.

Because, in the end, it is action, not speeches, that drives the message home in The Bridge on the River Kwai. That we are both enlightened and entertained herein only serves to sweeten the deal. 161 min. Color VCO10110

Perhaps the best thing about the screen treatment of this Rodgers and Hammerstein musical is that, on film, South Pacific has a visual depth and grandeur that even the finest of Broadway productions could never match.

All this, plus hit music, makes South Pacific a gem among Big Screen musicals. From inspired ballads like "Some Enchanted Evening" and "Bali Hai" to toe-tapping romps like "I'm Going To Wash That Man Right Outa My Hair."

THE INVISIBLE MAN

The Invisible Man (1933)

Gloria Stuart, Claude Rains, William Harrigan, Dudley Digges, Una O'Connor

In The Invisible Man, what you don't see is what you get. This remarkable 1933 movie marked the screen debut of Claude Rains as a scientist who discovers how to make himself invisible but can't reverse the process. Slowly he realizes with terror that he's become a prisoner of his unseen self, an unbearable state that drives him to madness and murder. Although he is invisible, his clothes are not, so we witness the bizarre sight of seemingly empty trousers bounding along, his hat suspended in space, or a floating fork feeding a space with no face. Rains is unforgettable as he grasps his character, which is more than the local constables can do when they try to catch him. This spectral spectacle, based on H.G. Wells' famous novel, is a motion picture classic — gripping and haunting. 1 hr. 11 min. B&W. VHS Beta Hi-Fi.

VICTORY AT SEA

Victory at Sea (1952)

This award-winning documentary series (taking the Emmy for Best Public Affairs Program) chronicles the history of Allied naval warfare during World War II through actual newreel and government footage. Leonard Graves is narrator and Richard Rodgers' widely acclaimed background musical score is performed by the NBC Symphony, conducted by Robert Russell Bennett.

Victory at Sea offers viewers a rare opportunity to witness the production standards and emotional impact of the era in the uncut version (later television audiences saw only fragments in an edited rendition) of this masterpiece.

Available as a six-volume set, each tape contains up to five episodes. Volumes may be purchased separately as well.

Mount St. Helens Explodes

Described by geologists and volcanologists as a once in a lifetime event, Mount St. Helens in southwest Washington state erupted in a titanic explosion on May 18, 1980, unparalleled in the continental U.S. in 3,500 years. The force of the blast was beyond the comprehension of man. A huge volcanic peak, one of the world's most beautiful, was literally torn away by the blast. Early damage estimates were already above 2 billion dollars, well on the way to becoming the most costly disaster in American history.

Our videocassette was shot by station KOIN-TV in Portland, Oregon, and they almost lost a $70,000 remote broadcast truck which was stuck in the ash for several days after the initial shooting. 29 min.

Pollyanna (1920)

Mary Pickford

Most of Mary Pickford's features are happy films. POLLYANNA is no exception. After viewing this delightful movie you are left with a special "glad" feeling.

This is a charming tale of the young daughter of an Ozark missionary. The little girl, always seeing the brighter side of life, constantly plays her "glad" games; no matter what befalls her, she is glad because it could have been worse. Her father dies and she is shipped off to a cold, embittered aunt who reluctantly takes Pollyanna because it is her duty. She is apparently merciless and unkind. Even here Pollyanna continues with her "glad" game and eventually Aunt Polly softens up. However, before that, Pollyanna has earned a multitude of friends including Jimmy, an orphan boy; the rich John Pendleton, who had loved Pollyanna's mother before she married the missionary; and Dr. Chilton, who was once Aunt Polly's beau before a bitter separation.

The Silents

Dracula/The Garden of Eden

Dracula (1922)

Max Schreck, Alexander Granach,
Gustav Von Wangenheim

This first important film version of Dracula was produced in Germany by F. W. Murnau (who gained greater fame for the Last Laugh). It made use of camera tricks that were innovative and created a suspenseful atmosphere. This abridged version of the original full length feature preserves almost all of the narrative assets of the original.

The Garden of Eden (1928)

Corinne Griffith, Charles Ray

The Cinderella of this fairytale, Toni LeBrun, has the deep desire to become an opera star. She runs away from home to answer an ad for a singer at the Palais de Paris — which isn't at all what Toni thought it would be. Toni eventually ends up at Eden, where she meets her Prince Charming. VHS only

The Blacksmith/Cops

The Blacksmith (1922)

Buster Keaton, Virginia Fox

Buster Keaton's superb comic talent comes alive again in this burlesque based on the time-honored poem "The Village Blacksmith". Of course, it's a loose base and doesn't work out quite as Longfellow wrote it, but with Buster at the lead what can you expect?

Cops (1922)

Buster Keaton, Virginia Fox

Buster's girl won't marry him until he's successful — a dandy motivation for his new business enterprise. But, unwittingly, he tangles with the police when the junk wagon he is driving becomes the target of a bombing. It results in one of the grandest chase scenes ever filmed, with hilarious mishaps. ### Battle of Elderbush Gulch/ Musketeers of Pig Alley (1914)

Battle of Elderbush Gulch

Lillian Gish, Mae Marsh

In D.W. Griffith's last film for Biograph, his artistry of working with crowds and individuals is well displayed. This western melodrama is about a young woman, Sally Cameron, her sister, and the Harlow family who all ride into a frontier filled with danger and suspense.

The Musketeers of Pig Alley (1912)

Lillian Gish, Elmer Booth

A young musician dwelling in the slums is beaten and robbed by a gangster who is attracted to his sister. A quarrel over the girl touches off a small war between rival gangs. Piano score by Robert Monschein. 13 min. B&W. VHS only

Legendary Theatre Organists

"Legendary Theatre Organists," could be described as an entertainment documentary. Approximately one hour in length, the production is a compilation of 1930's footage featuring some of the best known theatre organists of the period. Such notables as Jesse Crawford, Lew White, Ann Leaf and Don Baker perform on-camera.

This collection of vintage footage is augmented with new film footage of Gaylord Carter, a legend of theatre organ. Gaylord hosts the production, shares personal anecdotes about the artists, and tells us a bit of history about theatre organ and the featured artists.

This video cassette is a one-of-a-kind compilation that allows the viewer to glimpse a unique segment of our musical heritage preserved through motion pictures. 52 min. Color and B&W

ORPHANS OF THE STORM

Tempest (1927)

John Barrymore, Camilla Horn,

Louis Wolheim, George Fawcett, directed by Sam Taylor

John Barrymore plays Markov, a peasant soldier, who becomes an officer in the Imperial Russian Guard. He loved Princess Tamara (Camilla Horn), who scorns him for his common origins and has him stripped of rank and thrown into prison. When revolution comes, Markov, now an important Red official, is able to save Tamara from execution. He kills his Bolshevik leader, and together, as husband and wife, they make their escape to new lands.

One of the best of John Barrymore's "Great Lovers" films and his next-to-the-last silent, Tempest was designed by the great William Cameron Menzies and photographed by Charles Rosher, and is the most handsome of all Barrymore's photoplays. In addition to Taylor, Frank Lloyd, Lewis Milestone and Slav Tourjansky worked on the direction; the original screenplay (much-modified in its adaptation by Ince stalwart C. Gardner Sullivan) was by Erich von Stroheim. VHS only

Earth (1930)

Directed by Alexander Dovzhenko

On more than one occasion, EARTH has been voted by critics as one of the top films of all time (as at Brussels, 1958).

The rather slight story line of EARTH was taken by Dovzhenko from a newspaper story of so-called "kulaks" (reactionary farmers) murdering a pro-communist agitator who brought the first tractor to his village. A Blackhawk orchestral score. 91 min. B&W. VHS format only.
