SCIENTIFICTEROTICA

By John Wilch

Into the 1930's, science fiction was, with a few exceptions, a succession of crudely written, male, hard science, adventure stories. The issues were black and white, the motivations nil. Since then, the first wave of sci-fi writers have matured into expert craftsmen who understand character dialogue and soft sciences. Sci-fi has gone from pulp to respectability and beyond rapidly.

Sci-fi on the screen hasn't kept pace with the literature. As exciting as this recent sci-fi movie boom has been, the films have only dipped into 1940's type sci-fi literature. There remains a vast body of profound work yet to be filmed.

Screen sci-fi has frequently been a lousy reflection of sci-fi literature. Even in the previous heyday of sci-fi movies, the 1950's, science was usually disregarded. Atomic radiation and cloning became two of the most overworked standard causes of this disaster or that monster.

2001: A SPACE ODYSSEY, STAR WARS and CLOSE ENCOUNTERS OF THE THIRD KIND are three recent sci-fi films that work because of their grounding in the literary traditions of sci-fi. All three deserve applause for re-establishing sci-fi story lines as logical extensions of existing hard and soft scientific theories.

Other sci-fi ingredients these three films include, in varying degrees, are: man vs. machine, man vs. monster, perpetuation of cliches, epic tone, heroes fighting to retain humanity, moral simplification, prophecy, international unity, a new arena or different world with corresponding contexts, satire and spectacle.

Male/female relationships wherein sex, sexuality and love are present have been thoroughly explored by sci-fi literature in the last twenty years. 2001, STAR WARS, and CLOSE ENCOUNTERS barely delve into these topics. Although STAR WARS introduced a 1930's serial style heroine, she is basically a neuter character made of one dimensional cardboard.

Screen sci-fi hasn't begun to explore the dramatic allegory approach to matters sexual. Heinlein accomplished this decades ago in a short story about a hermaphrodite. In Harlan Ellison's DANGEROUS VISIONS collections, numerous stories by many of sci-fi's greatest writers project the sexual aspect of humanity into the future, in a dramatic form. Unfortunately, these stories haven't been filmed.

Despite the recent influx of such apocalyptic dramas as THX 1138, A CLOCKWORK ORANGE, THE MAN WHO FELL TO EARTH, ZARDOZ and A BOY AND HIS DOG, screen sci-fi has dealt with the sexual far more successfully and intelligently in comedy or satire than drama.

An hilarious example is Woody Allen's SLEEPER, a flawed but brilliant film. Allen generally ignores the pitfalls which afflicted the five sci-fi dramas just mentioned. The scripting counterbalances the visuals well without pretentiousness. Utilizing slapstick and satire, Allen's gaggy dissects ray guns, robots, orgasm closets, cloning, sex education and Woody Allen.

Another outstanding sci-fi film with black comedy overtones is SLAUGHTERHOUSE FIVE. Billy Pilgrim's time/space/lust experiences with the Hollywood starlet, Montana Wildhack, his fellow zoo-mate on Tralfamadore are wildly delightful and typically Vonnegutan. This film works also because it is so faithful to the original text.

The supreme example of sci-fi as sexual satire is BARBARELLA. Based on Jean-Claude Forest's eroticomic parody of comic heroines, porn, sci-fi, etc., BARBARELLA features Jane Fonda in the title role as the wide eyed, 41st century astronaut.

The strip was deliberately erotic and teasing with Gallic wit. In a typical exchange Barbarella praises the robot who has just made love to her.

Diktor, you have real style.

Oh! Madame is too kind. I know my shortcomings. There's something a bit mechanical about my movement.

This eroticomic flavor was transferred to the screen by a cast of writers, including Terry Southern, and director Roger Vadim. Vadim had previously had on and off camera relationships with Catherine Deneuve and Bardot. His work had always been preoccupied with the sexual. From the opening of the film, when Fonda is seen in a free fall striptease under the credits, the satirization of sexual manners and mores is evident.

Traditional sci-fi storyline touches shape, direct and move the plot in BARBARELLA. The threat of machine inflicted disaster looms when an Earth scientist disappears with the Positronic Ray, the worst of weapons. The President of the World, after another Barbarella disrobing, assigns her to the epic task of finding the scientist.

This structure is literally fleshed out by Barbarella's assorted adventures en route. First there is the hunter who she loves in "the old way" after he rescues her from carnivorous dolls. Allusions are made here to the exaltation-transference pills which have replaced "the old way." En route she restores an angel's will to fly with her sex therapy. The Black Queen captures them, but she is rescued by the impeccable David Hemmings to whom she teaches fingertip lovemaking. She is recaptured again and her indomitable sexuality is put to the test with the Excessive Machine. She destroys this machine with her libido and flies off with her angel, the mystery solved, the city in ruins.

It is to Jane Fonda's credit, that the film isn't merely a nude romp. She has such an aura of innocence and, consequently, naughtiness, that the film is entertaining, tasteful and humorous. Fonda, even in her Hanoi Jane guise, has always been an understandable American type. Anxious, earnest, often bumbling, vulnerable.

In sci-fi it is imperative that the main character be Everyman. Fonda, by playing this role straight and not camping it, becomes someone we know. Barbarella frequently double-takes, going from disbelief to delight in very credulous fashion because her character is familiar. The super sexuality is the satirical aspect of Barbarella's character. Barbarella is a source of love and destruction. She is a killer and a vamp. Her sexuality is a weapon and a gift. This is Vadim's swipe at the Pandora's box phobia.

The critics of the day reacted with a mixture of puritanical indignation and anti-camp hostility. Now the film looks tame, decent and wonderfully campy. Further, BARBARELLA has presaged so much of the sexual satire that has since appeared in all genres of film.

Jane Fonda, thankfully, escaped her sex symbol cage via Pollack's THEY SHOOT HORSES DON'T THEY? to become one of our greatest actresses today. Hopefully, she doesn't regret BARBARELLA, a minor classic of its kind, growing in stature with the passage of time.

The Sexual Space Opera .

BARBARELLA

Based on the French comic strip by Jean Claude Forest, BARBARELLA recaptures the spirit of the early American comic strips, marked by the same audacity and originality, the same mixture of fantasy, humor, beauty, and horror, cruelty and eroticism that made comic books such a favorite. The setting is the planet Lytton in the year 40,000, when Barbarella (Jane Fonda) makes a forced landing while travelling through space in her rocket. She acts like a female James Bond, vanquishing evil in the forms of robots and monsters. She also rewards, in an uninhibited manner, the handsome men who assist her in the adventure. Whether she is wrestling with Black Guards, the evil Queen, her innocent lover, or the Angel Pygar, she just can't seem to avoid losing at least part of her skin-tight space suit. BARBARELLA has become a cult favorite.

LON CHANEY — THE MIRACLE MAN OF THE MOVIES

by George Wagner

"We have forgotten entirely that the primary symbol of the theatre is the mask."

— Playwright Yvan Goll

Lon Chaney is unique in the history of movies: a major star whose fame rests very largely on his appearances in incredible make-ups — all of them designed and applied by the actor himself.

Chaney was given one of his first "breaks" in 1913 when director Allan Dwan noticed the actor appearing and reappearing in various make-ups on the Universal lot. Intrigued, Dwan began to find small parts for Chaney in his films. He appeared in the background in Dwan's BLOODHOUNDS OF THE NORTH (1913) as a member of the Northwest Mounted Police. In RED MARGARET-MOONSHINER (also 1913) he could be glimpsed as a mountaineer partially obscured by some rocks.

The problems of screen make-up came under his scrutiny after pioneer cinematographer Virgil Miller shot Chaney's first extensive screen tests with arc lights in 1914, with Pauline Bush acting as his leading lady. As the actor later noted, the orthographic film then in use caused red, orange, and brown to photograph almost as black; some shades of blue, pink and yellow appeared white while pink cheeks could look an unhealthy gray. Chaney immediately began experimenting with both straight and character make-ups to discover proper compensations for this inaccurate rendering of the color spectrum. Between experiments he spent his time in search of characters in the immigrant sections of Los Angeles or San Francisco's Chinatown. Thus Tod Browning could eventually cast him not only as an American gangster in OUTSIDE THE LAW, but also as the Chinese the gangster kills in double exposure.

If Chaney was appearing in a film based on literature, such as VICTORY, OLIVER TWIST, or THE HUNCHBACK OF NOTRE DAME he took pains to honor the author's conception.

As Ricardo in VICTORY Chaney not only decorated his face with pock marks. He somehow suggested that cat's whiskers might suddenly sprout from them, a suggestion in keeping with Joseph Conrad's descriptions of the slinking, feline villain.

And when Chaney, for OLIVER TWIST, appeared as Fagin for the first time on the set, with matted beard and foul smelling coat, Jackie Coogan could hardly be blamed for running off in tears.

During the filming of THE HUNCHBACK OF NOTRE DAME, Chaney would arrive at his dressing room at four thirty. To transform himself into the hunchback he began with putty, modeling the face. He inserted tubes in his nose to distend the nostrils. Wooden teeth were placed over his own; the false eyebrows were glued in place. Over the face a layer of greasepaint was applied, and graved into it were the fine lines of facial detail which became one of Chaney's trademarks. The right eye was covered by a hideous wen made simply of cotton wool covered with greasepaint mixed with olive oil. Next came the leather harness. It included shoulder pads which fitted across his back, and helped to create the illusion of a dwarf-like body beneath the massive shoulders. Straps of thick leather ran from the back of the harness so tightly as to bend the back into a curve. Over all this was fitted a tight rubber suit decorated with hair, concealing the harness and making a seamless joint with the body. Despite the technical advances Chaney made in later years, The Hunchback of Notre Dame remains one of his most brilliant make-ups. As Victor Hugo described the hunchback: "... with all this deformity there was a formidable air of strength, agility, and courage. . . . He looked like a giant who had been broken in pieces and ill soldered together." Chaney's Quasimodo was true to Hugo's description not only in its detail but in its sum effect.

Two years after THE HUNCHBACK Chaney created another sensation in THE PHANTOM OF THE OPERA. Taking a wire hairpin and bending the ends into hooks, he inserted them into his nostrils. At the curve of the pin he tied a string which went up the bridge of his nose, tightly traced the center of his head and was attached in back. In this manner he quite grotesquely elevated his nose. With mortician's wax and greasepaint he made of his face a cadaverous nightmare. Audiences everywhere were held spellbound as Chaney was unmasked. Variety thought he had perhaps gone too far.

"Following the 'Hunchback' thing it becomes a moot question whether or not Chaney's name in connection with a picture is going to keep children away from a theatre," the show business newspaper reported. "Any number of 'Unholy Threes' cannot erase the impression of these two make-ups."

Chaney went on to ever growing fame, however, and continued to astonish audiences with such brilliant make-ups as the vampire in LONDON AFTER MIDNIGHT and the hundred year old mandarin in MR. WU. His genius is evidenced not only in his performances but by these make-ups as well.

George Wagner has worked in the film industry as a sound engineer, cinematographer, and editor, and has independently produced experimental short films. He is currently a staff editor for New World Pictures in Los Angeles. In his spare time Mr. Wagner edits musical scores for silent films and does research for his forthcoming book dealing with Lon Chaney's film career.

B THE PHANTOM OF THE OPERA ★ (1925) LON CHANEY, MARY PHILBIN, NORMAN KERRY

Strange things are happening at the Paris Opera House.

Deep beneath it lurks a scarred genius methodically plotting revenge. He's a creature so hideous that he strikes terror into everyone . . . including the prima donna his tutoring has brought success.

The story is a classic that this 1925 movie, the first filmed version, lives up to spectacularly.

Lon Chaney, Sr.'s acting brought never-again-equalled power and scope to the title role. Director Rupert Julien kept the action moving. And the highly unusual colored masked ball sequence shocked audiences used to black and white. A masterpiece of horror.

B THE HUNCHBACK OF NOTRE DAME (1923)

LON CHANEY, PATSY RUTH MILLER, NORMAN KERRY

The first filmed version of Victor Hugo's novel captivated film audiences and brought Lon Chaney, Sr., "The Man of a Thousand Faces," stardom.

It's the touching story of Quasimodo, the hunchbacked bellringer of Notre Dame Cathedral who loves and defends the gypsy beauty Esmerelda during a beggar's revolt in France.

It cost one and one-half million dollars to film, and the money shows in set design, attention to detail and overall production values.

Yet Chaney's abilities as an actor of unusual depth remain the film's dominant features.

B OUTSIDE THE LAW<sup>2</sup> (1921)

LON CHANEY, PRISCALL DEAN, RALPH LEWIS, E.A. WARREN, WHEELER OAKMAN

The original negative of OUTSIDE THE LAW was destroyed, and until the mid-seventies no prints were thought to exist. Happily Bob Defles did locate a print of his mystery in which Lon Chaney, the master of make-up, plays 3-parts.

The print, however, was somewhat damaged. So extensive restoration was necessary. As now offered, these prints are good, but do contain some flaws near the end.

In the movie, a likeable hood, Silent Madden, and his daughter plan to "go straight". Unfortunately, Madden is framed and goes to jail. His daughter, embittered by the turn of events, continues to lead a life of crime.

THE AFRICAN QUEEN (1951)

HUMPHREY BOGART,
KATHARINE HEPBURN, ROBERT MORELY

Although less than 30 years old, AFRICAN QUEEN is quite rightly considered a classic.

John Huston's direction mixes humor and drama in perfect proportions. The players' interaction is riveting. And the James Agee script is filled with superb character development.

As Hepburn moves from being the thoroughly prim and proper missionary to plotting to destroy a German battleship, Bogart develops his Oscar-winning characterization of the drunken boat captain who is amazed by the company the outbreak of WW I has forced him to keep.

A rare combination of wit, charm and action. From Ivy Films.

This film's real stars are the ways director Herman C. Raymaker uses the magnificent Canadian scenery and Caesar, the trained German Shepherd who plays Lobo, a half-dog/half-wolf, blamed for the death of his master.

Among the expected thrilling escapes are tucked some extremely touching scenes of Lobo rescuing his trapped mate.

B THE MARK OF ZORRO

(1920) DOUGLAS FAIRBANKS, MARGUERITE DE LA MOTTE

THE MARK OF ZORRO was Doug Fairbanks Sr.'s first swashbuckler. Its overwhelming acceptance helped convince Fairbanks he was right in switching from his previous image (the All-American rich boy) to this new one (the flamboyant adventurer).

As the foppish Don Diego, Fairbanks adds many comic touches.

But as Zorro, the manly Mexican Robin Hood, he wins the love interest with the sprightly action, cloak-and-dagger intrigues, and pacing that made few swashbucklers this good.

Among the best sequences: Fine duels and a thrilling chase with daredevil acrobatics.

A Blackhawk Biography

Born in Kansas City in 1901, Ub Iwerks worked in a commercial art studio with Walt Disney and Rudolph Ising. In 1926, he was the main animator on the "Alice in Cartoonland" series. In 1928 he animated the "Oswald the Rabbit" series with Disney at Universal. He received "drawn by" credit for several early Mickey Mouse cartoons, including PLANE CRAZY. He also animated STEAMBOAT WILLIE and several other Mickey Mouse cartoons and is often credited as co-developer of Mickey himself. Later Ub created his own series, including "Flip the Frog", "Willie Whopper", "Comicolor Fairytales", and the "Color Rhapsody" series with Scrapy. Eventually Ub returned to Disney where he supervised special effects on 20,000 LEAGUES UNDER THE SEA, and developed and modified a Xerox camera for 101 DALMATIANS. He also was a special photographic advisor on Hitchcock's THE BIRDS. In 1964 he shared an Oscar for his work on Color Traveling Matte Composite Cinematography which was used in the making of MARY POPPINS. Ub Iwerks died in 1971.

SPOOKS (1930)

Flip the Frog's in trouble. It's a stormy night, and Flip and his horse need shelter.

Unfortunately, Flip pulls a boner and picks a house haunted by a skeleton dancer, skeleton musicians, and a skeleton dog, all of which want to make Flip into a skeleton, too.

Ub Iwerks' blustery night scenes produce excellent illusions of storm clouds and lightning.

THE HEADLESS HORSEMAN

(1934)
When Ub Iwerks animated the famous Washington Irving story, he added many typical Iwerks touches. Ichabod Crane's nemesis Brom, for example, is a characterization of Clark Gable.

Particularly well done are the music and astonishing multiple plane animation sequences such as Brom chasing Ichabod through a very eerie forest.

SUMMERTIME (1934)

Ub Iwerks' SUMMERTIME can be regarded as a forerunner of Disney's FANTASIA.

Starting as winter fades into summer and continuing until winter returns, this musical review is full of mythical creatures.

Among the techniques Iwerks used was roto-scoping . . . photographing humans and then copying their movements.

JACK AND THE BEANSTALK

(1933)
When Ub Iwerks made JACK AND THE BEANSTALK, this English fairy tale had already been filmed several times. In fact, one of the previous cartoon versions had been made by Iwerks while he and Disney were collaborating in 1922.

This version contains all the elements of the classic tale including a particularly well done Giant-after-Jack chase.

HUMPTY DUMPTY (1934)

Ub Iwerk's Humpty Jr. is a thrill-seeking chip off the block, despite mother's warnings, "Be careful!" That's how your father got cracked!" Humpty "falls" for pretty Easter Egg, and in a production number like a Busby Berkeley egg-musical they court to the catchy tune of "Spoonin' in a Spoon". Yipe! Villanous Bad Egg steals Easter and a "scrambling" chase scene ensues. Easter falls into a pot of boiling water. Via spaghetti lasso Humpty rescues, but she emerges with Mae West demeanor. Humpty also gets dunked and the hard-boiled pair are just tough enough to crack Bad Egg. One of the best Comi-colors.

THE BRAVE TIN SOLDIER (1934)

This charming adaptation of Hans Christian Anderson's "The Steadfast Tin Soldier" is both beautiful and dramatic. Working with and under the supervision of Ub Iwerks, animator Jimmie Culhane produced a most "serious" and touching version of this tale of the one-legged soldier, his cardboard ballerina and the many rivals they overcame before reaching a happy end in "Toy Heaven".

Iwerks' JACK FROST is a gorgeously drawn cartoon packed with Iwerks' inventions, high spirits and surprises like the scarecrow who sings, dances and looks like Cab Calloway.

THE VAGABOND (1916)
 CHARLIE CHAPLIN, EDNA PURVIANCE,
 CHARLOTTE MINEAU, ERIC CAMPBELL

This is Charlie in one of his outstanding performances as The Tramp, a character of sentiment so easily loved. On a "happy note" Charlie the wandering violinist befriends and rescues a young girl who has been kidnapped by gypsies. By a fluke the wealthy mother locates her daughter and takes her back home leaving Charlie heartbroken and very much alone. But all is not lost and the "vagabond lover" finds happiness in the end. This Chaplin directed film has good dramatic touches foreshadowing many of his future works.

An amusing satire on Keystone slapstick stars Charlie as an overworked movie stagehand who destroys a movie studio. An excellent female impersonation and a finale topped with a pie throwing melee make this a triumph.

A Blackhawk Biography

Born 1889 in London to vaudevillian parents, Chaplin grew up in poverty. He came to America as a member of the Karno Theatrical Troupe. Mack Sennett and Mabel Normand attended a show and soon Chaplin was under contract to Keystone. At Keystone he learned the film medium and slapstick. From Keystone he went to Essanay, where he continued to develop the Tramp character, adding paths to his repertoire of pantomime. Dissatisfied, Chaplin signed a spectacular contract with Mutual for $50,000 upon signing and $10,000 a week: $670,000 in all! At Mutual he made his greatest comedy shorts, at least 3 of the 12 are indisputable classics. From Mutual, Chaplin went into a transition phase at First National. There his work was uneven and his personal life difficult. In 1919, he, Fairbanks, Pickford and Griffith founded United Artists. In 1925 Chaplin released his first UA picture, THE GOLD RUSH, a feature length masterpiece, followed by CITY LIGHTS and MODERN TIMES. In later years, Chaplin's output dwindled. He became a political exile from the U.S. This poet of comedy died in 1977.

THE CURE (1917)
 CHARLIE CHAPLIN, EDNA PURVIANCE,
 ERIC CAMPBELL, HENRY BERGMAN,
 JOHN RAND, JAMES KELLEY

Charlie as a sophisticated, but alcohol-prone man-about-town, visits one of the "springs" of the day where the "cure" was administered. Eric Campbell appears as a big ox with a gouty foot that inebriated Charlie persists in stumbling over. Charlie's trunk of liquor finds its way into the mineral spring and by the end of the film he and Edna are the only two sober souls in the entire place. That is, as sober as two people in love can be! One of the greatest shorts in the history of comedy.

Charlie is a klutzy waiter who serves a live cat to a restaurant patron and makes out the check of Mr. Stout by examining what the hothead has spilled on his suit. Then it's out of the restaurant and off to the rink. Charlie on wheels shows grace and agility at Edna's skating party. He turns it into a riot of roller skates complete with love, jealousy, falls and speed, and a whole bevy of flatfooted cops. THE RINK is a fast-moving comedy and one of the best shorts Chaplin ever made.

Charlie is "saved" when he visits the rescue mission on EASY STREET, the toughest neighborhood in town, and falls in love with the missionary Edna. Determined to make good Charlie becomes a patrolman. Policemen are being knocked off by the hour but Charlie reverses the process and becomes the master of the street. A great example of the little man's ability to triumph. EASY STREET was much like the impoverished area of London where Chaplin was a child. A very moving comedy with several classic gags.

THE DENTIST (1932) W.C. FIELDS, ELISE CAVANNA, BABE KANE
Written by Fields, THE DENTIST begins with a placid breakfast, a run-in with the iceman, followed by a round of golf with a hole in one. Later at the office, you see W.C. treat several patients in the usual roughshod Fields manner. Partway through his treatment of patient Elise Cavanna, he leaves to go upstairs and punish his daughter. Her temper tantrum cracks the plaster, part of it falling in Elise's mouth. People love this film today. However, when it first came out Fields was considered an irascible scoundrell Ah... yes.

STEAMBOAT BILL, JR. (1928)

BUSTER KEATON, ERNEST TORRENCE,
TOM MCGUIRE, MARION BYRON

River Junction is the local for a feud between steamer captains Steamboat Bill and J. King. Buster as Bill, Jr., falls head over heels for King's daughter. But the predictable plot . . . feuding fathers and frustrated young lovers . . . is secondary to the amazing special effects Keaton developed. In a cyclone sequence Keaton squeezed every possible gag out of a wind machine, often at his own risk. At one point a two and a half ton building front falls within inches of his head. An astonishing exhibition of Buster Keaton's talents.

A Blackhawk Biography

Laurel and Hardy began as a team at Hal Roach Studios in 1926. Laurel had been Chaplin's roommate and understudy in Karno Theatrical Troupe. He was in vaudeville for a decade when he joined Roach, first to star in his own series, then as a writer, and finally as the "L" of L&H.

Babe Hardy entered showbiz as a singer and went into films in 1913 as a villain.

As a team, Laurel and Hardy made 105 films which were largely ignored by critics until the 1950's.

Each was the other's dumbfunny foil. As their comedy evolved, they made millions laugh.

Both are gone now, but their effect on comedy continues.

 OLIVER HARDY, CHARLIE HALL,
 ANITA GARVIN

BATTLE OF THE CENTURY has been considered a "lost film" for some twenty years, and its reputation has now assumed legendary proportions. BATTLE was the first film in which Laurel and Hardy emerged as a great comedy team. Charlie Hall is a pie vendor making a delivery when he has a disastrous encounter with Laurel and Hardy. He slips on one of the boys' banana peels coming out of a shop and the fight is on. Every innocent bystander is involved when more than 4,000 pies meet their fate. Pie sequence only.

 STAN LAUREL, OLIVER HARDY,
 THELMA TODD, JAMES FINLAYSON

Vagrants Stan and Ollie are being chased by the police. They come upon a basement door and see it as their means of escape. The door leads to a mansion and the boys take over. Ollie decides that he should assume the role of master of the house. Where does that leave Stan? Doubling as the inept butler and the butler's twin sister Agnes, the maid. The story is based on a sketch written by Stan Laurel's father called "Home from the Honey-moon".

BUSY BODIES<sup>2</sup> (1933)
 STAN LAUREL, OLIVER HARDY,
 TINY SANDFORD, CHARLIE HALL

Stan and Ollie work in a planing mill and knock each other about with boards all day. Stan "helps" Ollie by planing his rear end, trapping his fingers in a window frame, opening a closet on him, and dumping a can of glue over his head. It's an ideal Laurel and Hardy comedy, especially when their prized Model T roadster heads straight for the bandsaw in the film's classic moment. Their timing is excellent in each and every gag, making BUSY BODIES an outstanding example of the boys practicing their trade . . . comedy.

B BRATS<sup>2</sup> (1930)

STAN LAUREL, OLIVER HARDY

Playing both fathers and sons, Stan and Ollie are babysitters for Stan Jr. and Ollie Jr. Being acquainted with the messes which Stan and Ollie achieve as adults, you already know their sons are chips off the old blocks. The junior members of the families almost break up the long friendship that has existed between their fathers. Oversized sets used to create the illusion of the boys as children make BRATS unique among Laurel and Hardy comedies.

STAN LAUREL, OLIVER HARDY,
JAMES FINLAYSON, JEAN HARLOW

Stan and Ollie are convicts making their escape from prison. They change into civilian clothing only to discover that their pants are switched. They are constantly being discovered and screamed at for trying to change their pants behind some wall or mound of packing cases. Finally, with a policeman in pursuit, they are whisked in a construction elevator to the top of a new skyscraper of which only a steel skeleton is yet completed. The boys contend with steel beams on hoists, joints not yet riveted, and each other. Perhaps their greatest silent.

TWO TARs<sup>2</sup> (1928) STAN LAUREL, OLIVER HARDY, EDGAR KENNEDY, CHARLIE HALL

TWO TARs is a famous and brilliantly funny picture. Easily among that handful of films deserving to be labeled a true "comedy classic". Stan and Ollie are two sailors on leave who pick up a pair of easily impressed young ladies for a joy ride in the country. En route, they encounter a massive traffic jam. Ollie intervenes, but motorists' tempers flare and nearly every Model T on the road is more or less systematically pulled apart, crushed, smashed, or otherwise disfigured. More than a hundred cars were used in filming.

Resentful, Ollie becomes his butler in this the first of several humorous twists. Next to the last Laurel and Hardy for Hal Roach.

Generally rated as one of the best of all the Laurel and Hardy features, SONS OF THE DESERT is jam-packed comedy from beginning to end. It contains some of the best routines the boys ever developed. Stan and Ollie are determined to go to their fraternal convention, but their wives have other ideas. So, Ollie pretends to be sick and a "doctor" orders him on a long sea voyage with Stan in attendance. BIG BUSINESS<sup>2</sup> (1929)
 STAN LAUREL, OLIVER HARDY,

BIG BUSINESS is one of the comedy classics. Even non-Laurel and Hardy devotees are automatically caught up in the fury which in its precise mounting excitement, attention to detail, meticulous editing, and no-pause-for-breath action, is to the comedy film what THE BIRTH OF A NATION is to the historical spectacle. Selling Christmas trees in California, Stan and Ollie seem to bring out the "Bah, humbug!" in everyone. At the home of Scotsman Finlayson, disaster nearly overtakes everyone.

 STAN LAUREL, OLIVER HARDY

Stan and Ollie are a "big time" vaudeville team enroute from one theater to another. Catching a train becomes a problem when Stan loses the music. A passenger trips over their cello as they all scramble aboard. When Ollie asks how they can perform without music, Stan suggests they fake it. It's time to find a seat, but Stan sits on a midget and a passenger's hat before they get settled. They are then put in the upper berth of an open section Pullman for the evening. While the space is confined, the laughs are not.

B THE LAUREL AND HARDY MURDER CASE<sup>2</sup> (1930)

STAN LAUREL, OLIVER HARDY

Here's a creepy "haunted house" thriller that burlesques the atmosphere of the mysteries of the 1920's. Stan and Ollie become involved with a strange butler, the police, heirs, black cats, a stormy night complete with lightning flashes, screams, murder and suspects. Why? All because Ollie has the idea that Stan is the long lost heir of the late tycoon, Ebenezer Laurel. It's murder in the worst degree, with an inept investigation in true Laurel and Hardy tradition. Dare we say . . . you'll die laughing?

B HOG WILD<sup>2</sup> (1930) STAN LAUREL, OLIVER HARDY

Ollie has promised his wife he will put a radio aerial on the roof, and Stan arrives just in time to "help." The climax comes when the ladder to the roof, balanced on top of the Model T, takes off in city traffic with Ollie on top and Stan along, but not really at the wheel. They become involved with one of the old Los Angeles narrow gauge trolley cars, between which Stan's Model T gets "squashed" into an accordion! The story for this well-constructed comedy was written by the great comedy director Leo McCarey.

SWISS MISS<sup>2</sup> (1938) STAN LAUREL, OLIVER HARDY, DELLA RINK, ERIC BLORE

Just as Victor Albert, great operatic composer, arrives at the Alpen Hotel in the Swiss Alps, two nincompoop mousetrap salesman, Stan and Ollie, enter town. Albert needs peace and quiet to write his opera, and you can bet that is just what he doesn't get with Stan and Ollie around. The boys start out washing dishes and are promoted to waiters. Here Stan does a marvelous routine trying to con a St. Bernard out of his brandy keg. (Stan shot this remarkable sequence in one take.) The zany climax finds them moving a piano up a narrow Alpine trail, over a swaying bridge on which they meet... a gorilla!

Stan and Ollie are street musicians. Stan plays the portable organ, and Ollie plays the viol. Business isn't too good on this particular day until they notice they are next to an institution for the deaf. They relocate and a woman pays them double just to get them off her street. Moving on, their rendition of "In the Good Old Summertime" irritates Charlie Hall who is shoveling snow. Things get violent, and the organ is flattened by a passing truck while Ollie gets smashed over the head with the viol. In a stroke of what appears to be good luck, they find a loaded wallet. But when they invite the cop to share in the cash, they discover it belongs to him.

STAN LAUREL, OLIVER HARDY
One of the earliest of the Laurel and Hardy comedies produced by Hal Roach. It presents Stan and Ollie as blundering, fumbling Neanderthal men surviving as best they can. Their leader decrees that all men between the ages of 13 to 25 must marry in 24 hours or else be killed or banished from the tribe. Ollie is a mighty giant who thinks he's quite the ladies man. His most effective line is "Beautiful weather we're having. The elephants are flying south." Stan is "Little Twinklestar," and both are after the same girl. There is a brief animated section in the middle of this film.

THE MUSIC BOX<sup>2</sup> (1932)
B STAN LAUREL, OLIVER HARDY,
 BILLY GILBERT, CHARLIE HALL
 Simply put, THE MUSIC BOX is one of the best sound films Laurel and Hardy ever made. In it, Stan and Ollie must deliver a piano to Professor Theodore von Schwarzenhoffen. The good professor's house, however, is only reachable by a long flight of steps . . . a very long, very steep group of steps to be sure.

From then on things run from predictable to the nuts with tie-twiddling, the inevitable cop, a ridiculing nursemaid with baby carriage, and more.

THE MUSIC BOX is a rich, well-edited and perfectly executed example of frustration comedy. It's also Laurel and Hardy's only Oscar-winning film.

 The boys are a pair of chimney sweeps who perform like a demolition crew.

Nept, hazardous and thoroughly comical, Stan and Ollie arrive to clean the chimney of a crackpot scientist. Jessup, the butler, drolly tells the boys that the fireplace is against the wall.

Stan and Ollie go to work, but between Stan's shooting Ollie with bricks and soot, Ollie's end-of-his rope "I have nothing more to say" remark, and Littlefield's search for the elixir of youth, DIRTY WORK turns into one of Laurel and Hardy's most memorable movies.

THEY GO BOOM<sup>2</sup> (1929)
B STAN LAUREL, OLIVER HARDY,
 CHARLIE HALL
THEY GO BOOM is an ideal example of Laurel and Hardy's ability to take a simple premise and elaborate it into minute after minute of laughter.

The premise: Ollie has a cold, "I'm liable to die of ammonia". Stan will care for him. Among the developments: While they sleep, Stan sneezes. The window shade zips open. Ollie pulls it down before pulling the covers off Stan.

Stan sneezes, a plaque falls. Stan drives a nail to rehang it. The nail hits a water pipe.

Outstanding comedy bits keep alternating with sneezes until the climax . . . an air mattress filled with gas explodes after, of course, Stan sneezes.

 EDGAR KENNEDY
 Small time contractors Laurel and Hardy are hired to complete a bungalow located in a Hospital's Quiet Zone.

Even though the hospital's head nurse and cop Edgar Kennedy try, quiet and the boys just don't go together.

The house, however, does get built "like Gibraltar" . . . at least until a bird's weight collapses it.

B HELPMATES<sup>2</sup> (1931)
STAN LAUREL, OLIVER HARDY,
BLANCHE PAYSON, BOBBY BURNS,
ROBERT CALLAHAN

When Ollie awakes after a wild house party, the realization of impending doom looms . . . his wife is due back at noon. With the house a mess and a hangover to boot, Ollie asks Stan for help. And then compounds the error by leaving before the cleanup is done.

Along the way are sequences with selzer bottles, soot and other slapstick standards. Many of these were considered passe until Oliver and Stan refined them.

Bobby Burns, by the way, executes one of the Roach Studio's standard tricks . . . a fall which even had a name: gag 108.

B MIDNIGHT PATROL<sup>2</sup> (1933)
STAN LAUREL, OLIVER HARDY,
CHARLIE HALL, TINY STANFORD

In most cases when Laurel and Hardy dealt with the law, they were on the wrong side . . . either by choice or by chance.

In MIDNIGHT PATROL they prove no more adept at crime busting than they are at crime causing.

Despite nearly having their squad car stolen, unwittingly aiding a burglar, and almost wrecking their Police Chief's house, the boys do apprehend a crook. Wonder of wonders.

MIDNIGHT PATROL, the pair's 31st two-reeler, marked the last appearance of Tiny Stanford with the boys. In most of his roles with Laurel and Hardy, Stanford had played a cop.

B OUR WIFE<sup>2</sup> (1931) STAN LAUREL, OLIVER HARDY, BEN TURPIN,
JIMMY FINLAYSON

It's nuptial nonsense when Stan helps Ollie elope. But Ben Turpin, the cross-eyed justice of the peace, marries the bride to the wrong man.

By the time Ben Turpin made this very funny cameo appearance, he was more a character actor than a comedian. Originally he had worked with Charlie Chaplin, but a falling out caused him to launch his own successful career.

Even after the stock market crash of 1929, Turpin, unlike many silent era stars, was financially secure. His investments in real estate had proved more depression-proof than other performer's stock and bond purchases.

A Blackhawk Biography

Between 1922 and 1944, 221 Little Rascals comedies were made. The cast of kids changed regularly, but the series as a whole was characterized by inventiveness, talent and professionalism. The atmosphere was easygoing, with Roach and his top Rascals director, Robert McGowan, supervising father figures. Although the Rascals series produced some stars (Jackie Cooper and Robert Blake), the glory of the series is the group of kids. Many imitations were tried but the group was never successfully copied.

B THE PINCH SINGER<sup>2</sup> (1936)

In a take-off on Major Bowes Amateur Hour, Spanky holds tryouts for someone to represent the Little Rascals on a radio station's big $50.00 talent contest.

B THE KID FROM BORNEO<sup>2</sup> (1933)

Spanky's ne'er-do-well uncle comes to the Gang's hometown to show a wild man from Borneo. The kids mistake the attraction for the impresario. "What makes him so black?" asks Stymie. "My mother says he's the black sheep of the family", replies Dickie Moore. The Gang thinks the wild man from Borneo is going to eat them up. "I don't think I'll taste so good," says Spanky, "Mom says I'm spoiled." A comedy with good dialogue and effective gags. Although THE KID FROM BORNEO is often abridged for television, Blackhawk's version is uncut.

 HAROLD LLOYD, MILDRED DAVIS,
 BILL STROTHER, NOAH YOUNG
 WESTCOTT B. CLARKE, MICKEY DANIELS

Harold leaves for the big city to make his fortune, promising his sweetheart that he'll send for her as soon as he makes it. He writes home exaggerated letters of his success. The girl, believing Harold is wealthy, goes to the city to see that he saves his money. Harold is shocked to see her and vows to win money in a publicity stunt so they can be married. He ends up scaling a building in spite of pigeons, a tennis net, a painter's board, a clock, a mouse and a weather gauge. Lloyd was an expert stunt man and actually climbed the building himself. It's a delightful film with an outstanding musical score.

B HAUNTED SPOOKS (1920)
 HAROLD LLOYD, MILDRED DAVIS

Poor Harold is unlucky in love. He loses every girl he loves to the other guy. Even suicide fails. Then along comes Hillary, who needs a husband to inherit a house. It's wedding bells for Harold but he gains a haunted house in the bargain. Although HAUNTED SPOOKS marked Lloyd's return to the screen after a bad accident, reviewers hailed it as his best comedy to that time. It's ingeniously simple in conception and filled with cleverly executed gags. No one could fail at a suicide as well as Lloyd, nor draw as much sympathy from the audience.

Later, one disappointment (the publisher rejects his novel) leads to another (the girl's engaged and her fiancé's a rascal).

Comedy

TEDDY AT THE THROTTLE (1916) BOBBY VERNON, GLORIA SWANSON, WALLACE BEERY, TEDDY (THE DOG)
 In 1915 an out-of-work man walked into the Sennett Studios accompanied by a Great Dane. The dog was signed . . . for $35.00 a week.

The canine's name was Teddy. And for years he held his own as a star on the Sennett lot, complete with his own dressing room and a public relations department fond of sending out his signature . . . a paw print.

Eventually seven different dogs played the Teddy part. Each was portrayed as at least as bright as the human stars.

In TEDDY AT THE THROTTLE, Bobby Vernon plays the fickle-hearted boyfriend of Gloria Swanson. And when the villain abducts her and ties up Bobby, it's Teddy to the rescue.

Directed by Clarence Badger who later filmed IT.

BARNEY OLDFIELD'S RACE FOR A LIFE (1913)

BARNEY OLDFIELD'S RACE FOR A LIFE has assumed legendary status because it combines so many of the absurdities, slapstick gags and cliches that made the Sennett Studios famous.

The movie may well be the ultimate burlesque of high melodrama with a lovely girl, abducted by a dastardly villain, and Barney racing a train to the suitably happy ending.

DR. STRANGELOVE OR HOW I LEARNED TO STOP WORRYING AND LOVE THE BOMB (1963) GEORGE C. SCOTT, PETER SELLERS, STERLING HAYDEN, SLIM PICKINS

In 1963 Director Stanley Kubrick turned an unlikely topic . . . the nuclear destruction of every living thing . . . into a classic black comedy.

In the film a demented General, Jack Ripper, unleashes a highly unauthorized nuclear attack against "The Rooskies".

The performances by Scott as a gung-ho General who looks on war as good, clean fun; Pickens as a good 'ol boy B-52 pilot; and Sellers in three roles are superb.

In the end atomic explosions are as common as pie-throwing in a slapstick comedy.

Co-written by Kubrick and Sellers, DR. STRANGELOVE is one of the finest films of the last 25 years.

NANOOK OF THE NORTH is both an epic film and an epic achievement. Robert Flaherty, an explorer turned filmmaker, had spent 20 years in the North before he started this documentary.

Working at temperatures well below his camera's capabilities, Flaherty filmed an intelligent, almost allegorical record of Eskimo customs and Nanook's skills and humor. More amazing yet was Flaherty's ability to capture the warmth and tenderness Nanook and his family feel as they "conjur" food, shelter and clothing from the bitter Arctic.

It's a remarkable film, possibly the best documentary ever, and certainly a film milestone.

THE PLOUGH THAT BROKE THE PLAINS (1936)

Pare Lorentz's PLOUGH THAT BROKE THE PLAINS broke the European monopoly on social documentary films.

The film concerns the 400 million acres of the Great Plains, their settlement, misuse and consequences.

B BERLIN: SYMPHONY OF A GREAT CITY<sup>2</sup> (1927)

Director Walter Ruttmann's famous BERLIN: SYMPHONY OF A GREAT CITY is one of the most influential non-fiction silent films.

On the surface it records everyday events: a railroad arriving from a suburb, factories opening, street filling, traffic jamming, an evening at a cabaret, etc.

But it's also a social commentary when it contrasts the simple meals of diners with the huge ones served at the Berlin Zoo . . . or a suicide at dusk.

And it's a lesson on the art of film with images piling on images until a definite rhythm, story and personality emerge.

A Blackhawk Biography

One of the greatest pioneers in motion picture history, D.W. Griffith, directed his first film in 1908 for Biograph. In the next five years he directed approximately 450 films. Griffith's use of the camera and story devices, such as the dramatic rescue, immediately put him into the forefront of movie making. What didn't exist in film technique, Griffith would often invent. In 1915, THE BIRTH OF A NATION, his first great epic, was released. Politically it remains controversial. Artistically it is a landmark. Griffith's monumental INTOLERANCE followed. It's quite possibly his premiere work, although it was far less profitable than BIRTH OF A NATION. With the advent of sound and the Depression, Griffith's moralism and pre-occupation with drama became less popular. He died in 1948 at the age of 73, a brilliant man, lonely and wanting to work.

INTOLERANCE (1916) MAE MARSH, ROBERT HARRON, MIRIAM COOPER, CONSTANCE TALMADGE, ERICH VON STROHEIM, LILLIAN GISH

Although less financially successful than his earlier BIRTH OF A NATION, D.W. Griffith's INTOLERANCE is regarded as his most important work.

Using the image of a mother rocking a cradle as a bridge, Griffith skillfully wove four separate, but parallel stories (The Fall of Babylon, the crucifixion of Christ, the St. Bartholomew's Day massacre of French Huguenots and a more modern story) into one whole. The magnificently achieved purpose: to illustrate the struggle between love and intolerance through the ages.

An impressive score adds greatly to Blackhawk's sound prints.

B SON OF THE SHEIK<sup>2</sup> (1926)
 RUDOLPH VALENTINO, VILMA BANKY,
 AGNES AYRES

SON OF THE SHEIK was Rudolph Valentino's last movie . . . and his best. It reveals both this early screen idol's sense of humor and his professionalism.

The story concerns a desert sheik who believing a beautiful dancing girl has betrayed him, abducts her to exact his "sweet revenge". Finding her innocent, the sheik then sets out to bring the desert renegades who victimized her to justice.

Surprisingly, SON OF THE SHEIK is as fresh today as ever. The reason? Even when it was made, it took a tongue-in-cheek attitude toward the torrid love scenes, desert chases and larger-than-life rescues that give it so much charm.

Although he added the blistering pace and ever-building tension, director Alfred Hitchcock based THE MAN WHO KNEW TOO MUCH on an actual incident.

In 1910, several Russian anarchists had holed up in London and Winston Churchill called out the Home Guard to capture them.

In the film, an anarchist holds the wife and father of the hero as Hitchcock's cameras follow Bobbies over walls, through back doors and on to the rescue.

The film vividly proves that even in his earlier days Hitchcock could tantalize an audience.

Thus, it's a true tour-de-force for both film students who appreciate its techniques and other viewers who appreciate a rousing well-done suspense tale.

A Blackhawk Biography

Georges Melies, a talented conjurer, was one of the first to realize that film could create illusions unfettered by logic or probability. Melies constructed his own camera and opened the first cinema in Paris. He produced nearly 4000 films between 1896 and 1914. Throughout his career, Melies financed, wrote, designed, directed, and appeared in his fantastic magical productions. TRIP TO THE MOON ranks as the first great international success in the history of film.

A Blackhawk History

The Pathe Studio began in France, the country which dominated the early history of film.

By 1910, however, they also had an American unit which traveled photographing and showing their product.

The Studio had enormous influence, pioneering the art film, serials, hand-tinting, modern distribution methods and more.

Charles Pathe, the studio's dictatorial founder, once declared "only the armaments industry made profits like ours."

THE THIEF OF BAGDAD

(1924) DOUGLAS FAIRBANKS, SR., JULIANNE JOHNSTON, SOJIN, SNITZ EDWARDS

The film cost two million dollars in part because of the cost of the many special effects needed to make legendary Bagdad seem real. Directed by Raoul Walsh.

TRIP TO THE MOON (1902)

Georges Melie's TRIP TO THE MOON begins as the president of a congress of astronomers announces that he and five colleagues will visit the moon.

Their space ship is a bullet designed to be shot from a huge gun.

It works, and the travelers approach the moon which becomes identifiable as a large face. In one of the most famous images in early cinema, the ship hits the face.

Other adventures (including moon men who attack) take place in this remarkable film with both imagination and pioneering visual tricks.

The History of the Motion Picture

THE HISTORY OF THE MOTION PICTURE is a unique series of half-hours tracing the development of the 20th Century art of film-making.

Some units are condensations containing carefully chosen highlights and key scenes from great classics. Others present anthologically selected materials from many sources on specific themes: comedy styles, individual stars, directional techniques, etc. New musical scores enhance interest for today's audiences, and thoughtful narration pinpoints the significance of each sequence in movie history, recalling the challenges faced by the craftsmen who made them.

A Blackhawk History

In the beginning there were many pioneers: the Frenchmen Lumiere and Melies plus the American Edison were among them.

Compared to the films these men produced, the earlier magic lantern shows and shadow plays were undy-namic, one dimensional and mundane.

In 1895 all that changed. That year French audiences were astonished to see a train move toward the camera in a production by Lumiere.

After Lumiere refused to sell Georges Melies a camera or explain how his worked, Melies set out to create one himself.

Melies succeeded and used his machine as a showman's tool, emphasizing both movement and magic. He had grasped the fantastic possibilities of film. His sets, effects and techniques were remarkable achievements then . . . and today remain spectacular.

Eventually Melies produced 4,000 or so films which did not merely record events . . . they told stories.

In America the Edison Co. had begun making "pictures" using their Kinetoscope, a peephole contraption used in penny arcades.

Edison director Edwin S. Porter, agreed with Melies that movies should tell stories and so shot THE GREAT TRAIN ROBBERY, one of the classic "primitive" films.

There were, of course, other film pioneers (Pathe, Lubin, Morrison, etc.) which later filmmakers built on. But from 1895 to 1915, Lumiere, Melies and Edison's Porter were the most influential.

Blackhawk offers many early films which can be found throughout the Blackhawk Film Digest.

Horror

THE PHANTOM OF THE OPERA (1925) LON CHANEY, MARY PHILBIN, NORMAN KERRY

Strange things are happening at the Paris Opera House.

Deep beneath it lurks a scarred genius methodically plotting revenge. He's a creature so hideous that he strikes terror into everyone... including the prima donna his tutoring has brought success.

The story is a classic that this 1925 movie, the first filmed version, lives up to spectacularly.

Lon Chaney, Sr.'s acting brought never-again-equalled power and scope to the title role. Director Rupert Julien kept the action moving. And the highly unusual colored masked ball sequence shocked audiences used to black and white. A masterpiece of horror.

THE HUNCHBACK OF NOTRE DAME (1923)

LON CHANEY, PATSY RUTH MILLER, NORMAN KERRY

The first filmed version of Victor Hugo's novel captivated film audiences and brought Lon Chaney, Sr., "The Man of a Thousand Faces," stardom.

It's the touching story of Quasimodo, the hunchbacked bellringer of Notre Dame Cathedral who loves and defends the gypsy beauty Esmerelda during a beggar's revolt in France.

It cost one and one-half million dollars to film, and the money shows in set design, attention to detail and overall production values.

Yet Chaney's abilities as an actor of unusual depth remain the film's dominant features.

NOSFERATU, THE VAMPIRE (1922) MAX SCHRECK, GUSTAVE VON WAGENEHEIM, GRETA SCHROEDER

Close your eyes and wind back through the murky past when a dead man came to life and journeyed through Europe sucking blood from the living and spreading death (or worse) everywhere his presence ventured.

It's been filmed many times since, but director F.W. Murnau's version of the vampire legend was the first. And he succeeded magnificently.

The symbolic camera work gives NOSFERATU a very effective, nightmarish quality. Blackhawk's prints of NOSFERATU contain the whole story although there are other versions of this classic film.

THE THIRD MAN (1950)

ORSON WELLS, JOSEPH COTTEN,
TREVOR HOWARD, VALLI

Written by Graham Greene, directed by Britisher Carol Reed and photographed by Robert Krasker, THE THIRD MAN is one of the top suspense films of all time.

An American writer in post-World War Two Vienna journeys to a friend's funeral. But after much investigation (and some bumbling) discovers his friend lives.

Little by little the darkness and treachery of Vienna's Black Market is revealed.

The performances are excellent. The zither score by Anton Karas is justifiably famous. And the film riveting.

Especially noteworthy are several sequences including the famous ferris wheel segment.

OUTSIDE THE LAW<sup>2</sup> (1921)

LON CHANEY, PRISCILLA DEAN,
RALPH LEWIS, E.A. WARREN,
WHEELER OAKMAN

The original negative of OUTSIDE THE LAW was destroyed, and until the mid-seventies no prints were thought to exist. Happily Bob Deflores did locate a print of this mystery in which Lon Chaney, the master of make-up, plays 3-parts.

The print, however, was somewhat damaged. So extensive restoration was necessary. As now offered, these prints are good, but do contain some flaws near the end.

In the movie, a likeable hood, Silent Madden, and his daughter plan to "go straight." Unfortunately, Madden is framed and goes to jail. And his daughter, embittered by the turn of events, continues to lead a life of crime.

A Blackhawk restoration. B/W

FOOLISH WIVES (1922)

ERICH VON STROHEIM, MAE BUSCH,
RUDOLF CHRISTIANS

When actor and director Von Stroheim produced this opulent, million dollar plus film, it established Universal as a major studio, lost money, and earned Von Stroheim a reputation as extravagant.

The film, now carefully restored, maintains the original plot of a Russian rake who seduced one too many women.

SILENT RUNNING (1972)

BRUCE DERN

Bruce Dern stars as an intense space botanist tending the planet's last vegetation. Set in the future when pollution has defoliated Earth, Dern revolts when ordered to abandon the project and return to a plasticized world. Special effects by Douglas Trumbull (special effects for 2001: A SPACE ODYSSEY) include the botanical space lab and two robot drones. Dern himself is a powerful asset to the film, rationally persuasive as an ardent conservationist but insane enough to kill for his convictions. A modern science fiction classic of the highest order.

SPOOKS (1930)

FLIP THE FROG

Flip the Frog's in trouble. This gruesome adventure almost marks the end of his career. It's a stormy night, and Flip and his horse need shelter.

Unfortunately, Flip pulls a boner and picks a ghostly mansion haunted by a skeleton dancer, skeleton musicians, and a skeleton dog. Flip's host, a skeleton ghost, wants to make Flip into a skeleton tool.

Credit is given to Ub Iwerks at his Flip the Frog best for drawing and production. The blustery night scenes produce excellent illustrations of storm clouds and lightning.

HIDE AND SHRIEK<sup>2</sup> (1938)

THE LITTLE RASCALS

HIDE AND SHRIEK casts Alfalfa in the role of X-10 . . . Sooper Slooth. Hiring Buckwheat and Porky as junior detectives, X-10 engages his first client, Darla, whose box of candy seems to have disappeared. Donning disguises (Baretta couldn't have done better) the three detectives jump on the trail of some innocent suspects. Their search leads them to the cab of a truck where they are forced to hide in some cartons. By the time they are uncrated they are smack in the middle of a haunted house! (The haunted house happens to be in the middle of an amusement park but the boys don't know that.) Before fleeing they are confronted by skeletons, eerie lights, taunting voices, fiendish laughter, a ghoulish organ and trick machinery torture!

THE HEADLESS HORSEMAN

(1934)

A luckless, skinny schoolmaster, Ichabod Crane, rivals mischievous Brom Bones for Katrina, the catch of the county. At a dance awkward Icky thinks his charms have won her. An irate Brom chases him home at a frantic gallop masquerading as the horrible, famous HEADLESS HORSEMAN. How a calmer Icky gains revenge at the wedding of Brom and Katrina provides a jolly surprise fade-out to this spooky tale.

When Ub Iwerks animated the famous Washington Irving story he added many typical Iwerks touches. Brom for example, is a characterization of Clark Gable. Particularly well done are the music and astonishing multiple plane animation sequences such as Brom chasing Ichabod through a very eerie forest.

DRACULA (1931) BELA LUGOSI, DAVID MANNERS, HELEN CHANDLER

Todd Browning directs the definitive interpretation of Brom Stoker's vampire classic. Bela Lugosi gives his most memorable performance as Count Dracula, the mysterious stranger from Transylvania who lives by night on the blood of unsuspecting victims! Lugosi invests the character with formidable dignity and stalks about the West End in his cloak and top-hat with ghastly relish. A special kind of macabre poetry is evident from the very beginning when the young agent arrives in the little mid-European village by the clattering old cab just as the sun sets. Frightened townspeople shutter themselves up while amid the rats and dust the Count with his three wraith-like concubines stands posed on the wide stairs. A chilling and atmospheric thriller!

FRANKENSTEIN (1931) BORIS KARLOFF, COLIN CLIVE, MAE CLARKE

In an extremely high tower at the height of a raging storm a trestle bearing a lifeless creature is slowly raised an immense height to an opening in the tower roof. The lighting glares and the storm thunders. But as the being is lowered the elements calm, their purpose accomplished. An inert hand gives its first quiver of life and FRANKENSTEIN is born.

Dr. Frankenstein (Clive) driven by the possessed mania of a creator, dares to tamper with life and death by creating a human monster in his laboratory. His dreams of perfection are thwarted when Karloff becomes a monster, lost, hated and raging. The first sight of Karloff with his gaunt features and dark-socketed eyes have a true charnel-house appearance guaranteed to shock. From the Mary Shelley tale.

THE MUMMY (1932) BORIS KARLOFF

Although there have been a dozen or more MUMMY films, this is the only one that can lay claim to being a classic. In this uneasy thriller, a 3000-year old MUMMY slowly reaches out his hand for a scroll that will enable him to reincarnate into human form. A tattered bandage trails behind him as he staggers out of the tomb and into the pitch of night, searching for his reincarnated Egyptian princess.

Karloff's excellent diction and controlled playing, backed by the outstanding makeup designed by Jack Pierce, creates one of his finest roles. There are some chilling closeups of Karloff's face and eyes as he kills and hypnotizes from afar merely by a tremendous exertion of will. A genuinely horrifying love story with a mystical and romantic musical score. The closest Hollywood ever came to creating a poem out of horror.

MICKEY'S TRAILER<sup>2</sup> (1938)

MICKEY MOUSE, DONALD DUCK, GOOFOY

No mobile home will ever quite compare after you've seen MICKEY'S TRAILER! His trailer is a living creature, and chock full of mischief. Mickey and his pals Donald and Goofy pack up the trailer and head out for a getaway trip to the mountains.

Donald has a sputtering bout with an alarm clock first thing in the morning. Later, he takes on various machinery inside; machinery with a will of its own. Garsh darn it! The trailer outwits Goofy and eats most of his breakfast. Meanwhile, Mickey is his usual cheerful self trying to keep things organized and pleasant.

At the worst possible moment the impudent trailer disengages from the car. The car goes on down one side of the mountain with Goofy at the wheel. Concentrating on driving carefully down the windy road, he is totally unaware of no trailer behind. Down the other side of the mountain careens the trailer, with Donald and Mickey inside. They just miss a train and fly off a cliff in a hair raising adventure. Goofy finally notices . . . no trailer? . . . and the race is on!

These three classic Disney character's personalities come through clearly in this superb short with loads of antics and gags. The mid and late 30's was Mickey's heyday. 87 of 118 Mickey Mouse cartoons were made at this time. Great music, action, and joking from the prince of animation.

THE LEGEND OF COYOTE ROCK<sup>2</sup> (1945) PLUTO

THE LEGEND OF COYOTE ROCK is probably Pluto's greatest cartoon. A narrator sets the scene . . . Pluto is a sheepdog in the southwest guarding a flock of sheep. A mean and hungry coyote draws Pluto away from the sheep long enough to steal the entire flock. Pluto through enormous heroism, bravery and relentless chasing rescues the sheep. Because of his courage the wily coyote turns to stone. A fast-paced, thrilling cartoon. Johnny Lounsberry, one of the greatest and the only deceased member of the "9 Old Men" was one of the animators on THE LEGEND OF COYOTE ROCK.

DONALD DUCK, HUEY, DEWEY, LOUIE

Softhearted Donald prepares a turkey dinner for his nephews. He calls them in from playing with a hearty, "SOUPS ON!" They come in filthy. The nephews fool him into thinking he has died and gone to heaven! In a tender scene he says good-bye, forgives, and tells them to eat the turkey. But when Donald catches on he transforms into a devil and the chase is on! An outstanding characterization of Donald, fast and funny.

GENE AUTRY AND WESTERN SONGS (1947) GENE AUTRY

Yodel-a-g-hoo! It's "Oklahoma's Yodelling Cowboy" doing the thing he does best: singing. In the mid-1930's he sang on radio station KVOO in Tulsa and was picked up by the Oklah label. Soon he was hired by Sears to present the Gene Autry Program weekly on WLS. It was a few short steps to movie stardom as the modern cowboy who was dressed fit to kill. He rode, sang, and shot with the best of them. Immensely popular, he received 50,000 fan letters per month. In this promotional short he sings three songs he practically made standards: "Mexicali Rose", "Back in the Saddle", and "Home on the Range".

HAROLD LLOYD, MILDRED DAVIS,
ANNA TOWNSEND,
CHARLES STEVENSON, NOAH YOUNG
DICK SUTHERLAND

GRANDMA'S BOY clearly established Harold Lloyd as one of the screen's leading comedians. Harold plays a young boy who thinks of himself as a coward. His grandmother tells him about his grandfather . . . a coward who was inspired to daring exploits by carrying a witch's lucky charm. She gives Harold the charm which is nothing more than the head of her cane, and leads a posse to capture the town bully. Lloyd's personal favorite among his films. The original 35mm film has intermittent white vertical streaks. This "flaring" is normal for this subject and no better print is available. This condition does not detract from the enjoyment of this film.

When he takes it home via the streetcar the bird ends up under a woman's skirt and Harold ends up walking. In the next scene Harold is forced to take his wife's family for a ride in his new car. Thanks to the mother-in-law's constant interference they collide with a streetcar.

GENE KELLY, DEBBIE REYNOLDS,
DONALD O'CONNOR, JEAN HAGEN,
CYD CHARISSE

An exuberant, song-filled satire of Hollywood in the last days of the silent era. Gene Kelly's first "talkie" threatens to be a disaster due to the leading lady's squeaky voice until it is decided to dub Debbie Reynolds' voice in over the leading lady's. Energetic Kelly is "Fit as a Fiddle and Ready for Love". Reynolds inspires him to merrily hoof it out-of-doors in the unforgettable number, "Singin' in the Rain". "Moses Supposes" and "You Are My Lucky Star" are also heard in this section. "Good Morning" opens part two as sung by Gene and Debbie. A lover's spat calls forth "Make 'Em Laugh". Here O'Connor dances up walls! Kelly and Charisse dance to "Broadway Ballet." O'Connor, Kelly and Reynolds mesh into one of the greatest musical-comedy teams in film history in this delightful classic which featured Reynolds in her first starring role.

He puts an article in the paper to this affect. Three Frenchmen visit Madame La Todd to see her paintings. Patsy plays a dual role as the French maid, Fifi, and the well-padded black-mammy-cook, Magnolia. Patsy gets drunk with Houseman in the kitchen and creates her own painting. The Frenchmen bid furiously against Arthur for it. The French win at over $1000, but when Patsy steps away her buttocks are imprinted on the painting! One of their funniest films.

HAROLD LLOYD, JOBYNA RALSTON,
NOAH YOUNG, JAMES MASON,
PAUL WEIGEL

J. Harold Manners, a debonair young millionaire in search of a downtown restaurant, passes an evangelist's coffee stand and accidentally starts a fire; Harold contributes a thousand dollars for damages, which the evangelist uses to open a mission named for him. Coming to protest this honor, Harold meets Hope, the evangelist's daughter, and offers to help her bring in the poolroom toughs and gangsters. He draws them into a chase, and with the aid of the police, he retrieves the property they have stolen. Harold's club friends abduct him to prevent his marriage to Hope, but his slim cronies come to the club and to the rescue. The race back to the mission turns into a melee of trials and tribulations for Harold as his inebriated friends wreak havoc; and at the mission Hope and Harold are married amidst the cheers of the converts. This was the first film in which Lloyd's foreign box office receipts equalled domestic, making him an international star.

B ALLEGHENY UPRISING<sup>2</sup> (1939) JOHN WAYNE, CLAIRE TREVOR, GEORGE SANDERS, BRIAN DONLEVY, ROBERT BARRAT, CHILL WILLS

Set in 1759 when America was a British colony, and apparently derived from fact, the film casts Wayne as Jim Smith, a man who loses patience with George Sanders' military commander, Captain Swanson. The later's adherence to the rule book is allowing corrupt traders (led by Brian Donlevy as Callendar) to sell goods to the Indians under cover of a government permit, and threatening the peace of the valley. ALLEGHENY UPRISING demonstrates the rapport between Wayne and Claire Trevor. It has handsome production values and was proficiently directed by William A. Seiter.

A NIGHT AT THE OPERA

Perhaps the Marx Brothers' best film, A NIGHT AT THE OPERA contains dozens of memorably hilarious moments: Chico and Groucho haggling over an opera star's contract; the fabulous stateroom scene in which dozens of the most improbable characters crowd into a ship's cabin not much larger than the interior of a Volkswagen; the Marx Brother's impersonation of Russian aviators on a New York good will tour; their evasion of an obnoxious detective by shifting furniture from one room to another, and of course, the final sequence in which they "do it" to "Il Travatore" as no one has done it before or since.
