

Popcorn – More Benefits than Weed Control

10/3/2018

You may remember the story of Jerry & Cindy Glaser's weed control program - the hands-on approach that gets the job done. If you do remember, you'll know how they rotate several crops with popcorn, corn, dry edibles, as well as, a diverse use of cover crops of small grains, grasses, and legumes. Not only does the combination of various crops, coupled with livestock help to control weed pressure, but some of those crops lead to additional recognition.

During the 2018 Preferred Popcorn Grower's Meeting, Jerry & Cindy were honored as the Organic Growers of the Year for growing the highest quality popcorn. For the last 20 years, Preferred Popcorn has been pleasing customers with high-quality, Nebraska-grown popcorn.

The company seeks to "honor God by producing high quality products and by serving their customers with integrity." With that mission, they have distributed popcorn to over 70 countries around the globe. They take pride in partnering with many of Nebraska's best farmers, such as the Glaser's, to provide a world-class product in every bag.

According to the Preferred Popcorn Origination Manager, Nate High, "Mr. Glaser was awarded this honor due to the quality of the popcorn brought into the facility based on percentage of damage, correct moisture, and percentage of foreign material. Jerry also received this reward for his pioneering spirit and innovation to produce a high quality product."

We couldn't agree more! It's the pioneering spirit and innovation that has set this dynamic duo apart!
