MIRACLE ON MAIN STREET

A Warm Christmas Story To Be Viewed All Year!

(1940)

starring MARGO, WALTER ABEL WILLIAM COLLIER, SR., LYLE TALBOT and WILLIE BEST

The setting is Los Angeles in the late thirties. Christmas fiestas flood narrow streets. Their festive overflow backs into a cafe where Jim and his blond bride-to-be sit at a counter toasting tomorrow. "We'll live on my ranch in the country," he tells her. "I'm a city girl, but I'm willing to try something else for a while" ... and awhile is exactly what it turns out to be.

Another character whose life soon intertwines with Jim's is Maria who is first seen fleeing from pursuers. She slips off a side street into a small church. Scarf around her face, tied tightly beneath her chin, as she kneels an abandoned child extends his small hand toward her. At first, Maria wants to leave child and church behind. Yet somehow she cannot.

Infant in arms, she returns home to a cramped second-story room where husband Dick awaits not too pleased with the situation. Suddenly the landlady barges into the scene. "The cops are coming. I don't want any trouble, so clear out!"

Now, without a husband, Maria has no means of support for either herself or the child. She must find honest work or return to the chorus line.

At this dark juncture, we return to Jim. His marriage has failed; his wife has returned to the city to file for immediate divorce. But here the magic of Hollywood and Christmas intervenes. Jim meets Maria. Within a few weeks, their relationship becomes a romantic one. Maria loves Jim but cannot confess to him. Just when Maria decides to confess, Dick returns. He promises to divorce her and then to leave the country, on one condition. Five hundred dollars. Maria must see Jim into giving her the money.

Jim appears at her apartment with the money, but finds Maria — the chorus girl. Clad in a black lace slip, she puffs on a cigarette acting much like Jim's ex-wife. Of course, he is dumbfounded. Maria deceives him because she wants to save him. In no way will she involve Jim with her underworld husband. Just when it seems she has succeeded, events change. See how Maria's dilemma resolved in time for a touching Christmas reunion with both Jim and baby. MIRACLE ON MAIN STREET is one of the rare films that proves happy endings are timeless.

SHADOWS OVER THE SNOW

(1914)

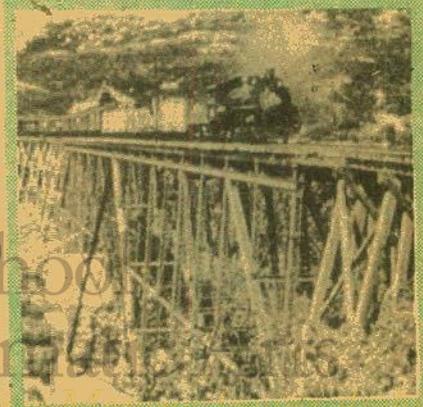

Restricted to the United States and Canada

In a genre where words have become an obsession, Arne Sucksdorff has shown how a film can dispense altogether with them and still make its meaning clear and compelling. He handles the camera as freely and fluently as if it were a brush in his hand, so that his pictures seem to reach the screen with a freshness and immediacy which deny the intervening mechanical process. With his feeling for composition and unerring sense of rhythm, his films are visual poetry, a continuous delight for the eye and a subtly enriching experience into a mystique.

WHITE PASS AND YUKON

photographed in beautiful rich color by Woodrow Gorman

This spectacular film photographed in 1951, pictures the White Pass when steam railroading was still the motive power. You'll see a variety of White Pass narrow gauge Mikes — as many as three on a train — working the 3.9 percent grade up the Pass. And a variety of mixed trains, passengers, and freights — along the Yukon — on high trestles — snaking along ledges and high above the canyon bottom.

LAUGHING WITH CHARLEY

What makes Charley Chase funny? Maybe it's because the character he plays can be found hiding inside ourselves. And...it's fun laughing at one of Hal Roach's greatest clowns. Besides being an excellent comic, Charley Chase was a gifted director, thus making his sense of comic timing truly superb. Each Charley Chase comedy is a HOLIDAY TREAT!!

SOUTHERN EXPOSURE

(1935)

with CHARLEY CHASE, CONSTANCE BERGEN, BOB BURNS and LOUISE CARVER

Charley and his wife visit Charley's relatives in Kentucky and by this we mean the hillbilly section of Kentucky. Bob and Louise Carver are among Charley's hillbilly relatives, and Charley plays the dual role of grandpappy as well as himself. There's hillbilly comedy and hillbilly music — and lots of fun!

HASTY MARRIAGE

(1931)

with JAMES FINLAYSON

Here is a Charley Chase comedy of considerably greater appeal today than at the time of its initial release in 1931. Charley and Eddie Dunn are rivals for the affections of Gay Seabrook who play's Jimmy's daughter.

As Gay prefers Charley, as does Jimmy, they set out to have a "hasty marriage" against the competition of Gay's mother who would much prefer Eddie.

SWEEDIE LEARNS TO SWIM

(1914)

starring WALLACE BEERY and BEN TURPIN

Learning to swim on dry land is Sweedie's idea of breaking up the hum-drum routine of her household duties, but before she's finished, it's also broken up a party, the house and the audience.

Wallace Beery's first screen fame came as a female impersonator during 1914-15 and for comedy fans, there's an extra bonus in the form of Ben Turpin and his wacky life-guard crew. Filmed in Chicago at a time when that city was still a major movie production center, this Essanay comedy offers a peek at Wilson Avenue Beach over a half-century ago, as well as a fascinating look at the early work of two of the screen's greats.

HIS DARKER SELF

(1924)

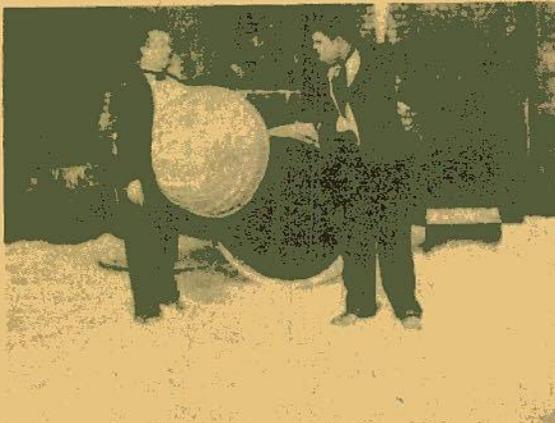

starring LLOYD HAMILTON

This two-reeler may be all that survives of a five-reel feature comedy of the same name released in March, 1924 by W. W. Hodkinson. Based on a play by famed writer-wit Arthur Caesar, and adapted by veteran screenwriter Ralph Spence, it marked the starring feature-film debut of Lloyd Hamilton, who up to this time had appeared only in short subjects.

Hamilton's two-reelers of the 1920s were consistently clever, well-made comedies, relying not only on first-rate production values and gag ideas, but also spotlighting the star's superb timing and subtle characterization.

(1930)

starring STAN LAUREL and OLIVER HARDY

The boys are musicians with Stan playing the portable organ and Ollie a big bass viol — and passing a hat to get what meager income comes their way. This particular cold and snowy day, traffic isn't too good, but the pickings are even worse — until they find they're spotted immediately next to the entrance of an institution for the deaf. The move — with "better" results. A woman on the second floor above them calls out the window to ask how much they usually get per street. They tell her, and she tosses them twice that amount asking them to move along two streets.

MICKEY'S MOVIES

(1928)

with MICKEY ROONEY as "MICKEY" (Himself) McGUIRE

Toonerville's Little Scorpion's Club was tough — the members used sandpaper to scrub their necks. Mickey (Himself) McGuire was elected president — but appointed himself treasurer. The members are all in evidence including Hambone, Tomboy Taylor, Little Chocolate, Katinka. When a movie company is found to be filming in the vicinity of the club — the "members" get an "idea" — why not film their own movie. Naturally, Mickey comes up with the scenario — and assumes direction, for he is eminently qualified — "My father once shook the hand of a man who shook hands with Charlie Chaplin." This oil sets the stage — the fun unfolds. Get in on it in "Mickey's Movies."

JACK FROST

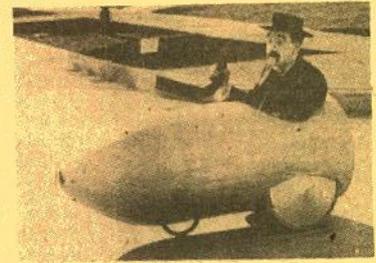

(1934)

A bouncy, headstrong, silly bear cub scampers around through wild snowy woods, refusing to sleep for winter. Ignoring the efforts of other animals, he boasts:

"I don't have to worry!
I don't have to care!
My coat is very furry!
I'm a little grizzly bear!"

All at once a cackle is heard. He's chased by terrible Old Man Winter! The scared cub hides and gets imprisoned behind thick bars of ice. How does he escape? Helpful Jack Frost appears, painting ice bars which become striped peppermint sticks. The cub eats them, racing away to his warm bear's home where he is tucked in for the winter.

IT'S A GIFT

(1923)

starring SNUB POLLARD

This laugh riot contains the best example of a man with a system ever filmed and it's all a prelude to the most sensational gasoline discovery of the century. You've heard that all companies suppress revolutionary products — now see why!

No comic of the silent screen was more at home with a mechanical gag than Snub Pollard. Backed by the creative gag writing of Charlie Chase and Stan Laurel in the mid-twenties, Snub turned out masterpieces of precision comedies whose basic humor, though dated now, remains hilarious in execution. For almost a decade, Snub was one of the mainstays on the Roach lot and IT'S A GIFT demonstrates why!

THE BRAVE TIN SOLDIER

(1934)

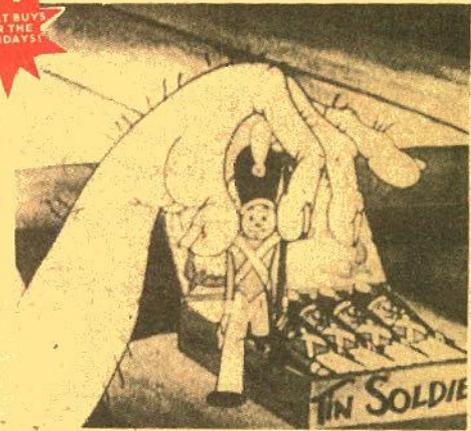

This exciting, charming adaptation of Hans Christian Andersen's celebrated "The Steadfast Tin Soldier" boasts no less a supporting cast than Eddie Cantor, Laurel & Hardy and Groucho (as a heartless Judge, no less) Marx performing as toys!

Large liberties are taken with the original — for instance, the lovesick one-legged tin soldier, mooning over the glamorous cardboard ballerina, does not go whirling down a dark sewer in a leaky paper boat! Yet "Ub" Iwerks' Celebrity Productions version is no less beautiful. No less dramatic.

The one-legged soldier and his lady fair, shot by vengeful tin soldiers, go to Toy Heaven where he is given a new leg. This version will prove more satisfying to children than Andersen's gloomy Danish sentiment.

NURSERY FAVORITES

(1913)

Primitive Talking Picture

Thomas Edison had experimented with talking pictures as early as 1893, connecting a phonograph to a set of ear tubes and using it to accompany the movie provided by his peep-show machine, the Kinetoscope. It was not until 1899 that the project was considered commercially profitable and by that time the peep-shows were being replaced by the store shows with their projected moving pictures. By 1912, Edison had reached the point where he was ready to try again.

His new Kinetophone embodied a giant phonograph, an Edison projector and a synch mechanism of sorts. The phonograph was located just behind the curtain in the theatre and in vaudeville houses, where it was most used, set below the stage level. Just before projection started, a trap door would open and the phonograph operator popped up from beneath to set the horn, start the motor and wait for his cue (which was supposed to be in the picture itself), throwing the switch which operated the phonograph with its 4-inch diameter cylinder.

These early talking pictures, antedating the Vitaphone by thirteen or fourteen years, had a brief vogue in the New York area. NURSERY FAVORITES, one of these 1913 Edison talkies, an operetta-like musical, is presented here much as it originally appeared and certainly as accurately synched as in the average theatre presentation of the time.

RED NOSES

(1932)

with ZAZU PITTS, THELMA TODD, BILLY GILBERT and BLANCHE PAYSON

The comedy team of the 30's are back again with fun and laughs galore! Zazu Pitts and Thelma Todd are roommates working in the same office. With both of them home with terrible colds, their boss promises them a bonus and vacation if they will go to a Turkish Bath to get rid of their colds and come back to work.

The girls end up at the Nature 13 Health Institute where they are put through a series of exercise machines, massages, and mud packs, ending with a chase through the Health Club by a man (Billy Gilbert) from the tailor shop next door who gets innocently involved. Considered risaue for its day (1932) this film today is a delightful comedy farce!

(1917)

with CHARLIE CHAPLIN, EDNA PURVIANCE and ERIC CAMPBELL

This is one in which Charlie does not appear as the tramp, but as a sophisticated bon vivant, addicted to alcohol, and visiting one of the "springs" of the day where the "cure" was administered. But his visit to the message department turns into a tableau and ballet that is delightful to witness. His trunk full of liquor finds its way into the mineral spring, with devastating and hilarious results.

DOUBLE WHOOPEE

(1929)

starring LAUREL and HARDY with JEAN HARLOW

DOUBLE WHOOPEE released to the theatres by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer late in the spring of 1929 was one of the last silent comedies starring Laurel and Hardy.

This comedy marked one of the early screen appearances of Jean Harlow, who the following year, was to be rocketed into stardom on the heels of her role in Howard Hughes' HELL'S ANGELS.

Stan and Ollie as prospective hotel footman and doorman are mistaken for visiting royalty. The climax comes when Jean Harlow alights from a cab in front of the hotel — and footman Stan closes the cab door on the train of her gown.

(1923)

From the Charles Dicken Story
Directed by Lorimer Johnston

Though THE CRICKET ON THE HEARTH is one of Dicken's most magical titles, the story to which he assigned it has more of his idiosyncrasy than his genius.

It was the third of his "Christmas Books" (1845), and at the outset its sale was far greater than that of either of its predecessors, A CHRISTMAS CAROL and THE CHIMES. Ultimately, however the CAROL vastly outdistanced it.

Frequently dramatized, the CRICKET early attracted the attention of filmmakers, and Griffith tried his hand at it in a one-reel Biograph of 1909, which, however, was considerably less faithful to the story than the Lorimer Johnston version of 1923.

TEMPLE OF MOLOCK

(1914)

A fascinating example of an early sponsored propaganda film, released for Christmas showing in 1914 to warn the American public of the dangers of tuberculosis, then the chief cause of death in the United States. By comparing two families, that of an industrialist and one of his employees who dally risks contamination, the production demonstrated vividly to audiences of the day why the death rate among unskilled laborers was seven times as high as that among the professional classes.

A Red Cross Seal Story
(1912)

A Christmas Card From Sixty Years Ago

This film was made in conjunction with the National Association for the study and prevention of Tuberculosis, to boost the 1912 sale of what were then called "Red Cross Christmas Seals" and to make people realize that tuberculosis, which was still a great killer, is curable if caught and properly treated.

THE ADVENTURE OF THE WRONG SANTA CLAUS

(1914)

with BARRY O'MOORE

THE ADVENTURE OF THE WRONG SANTA CLAUS was adapted from a story published in "Pictorial Review", a popular and rather well regarded magazine of the period.

Octavius, an amateur private eye, frequently got involved in difficult situations. By skill and courage, he invariably extracted himself by the end of the reel — or by the end of the monthly installment in Pictorial Review.

Octavius plays Santa Claus for some children, but two Santa's appear on the scene, one the detective and one the burglar.

SANTA VS. CUPID

(1915)

with RAYMOND MCKEE and GRACE MORRISSEY
A Thomas Edison Christmas present

A very light farce-comedy about a girl and her two suitors, both home from college for Christmas.

By December 13, 1915, when this film was released, the feature film era was well under way, and Mary Pickford had already appeared in nine of her Famous Players offerings. But the old one-reeler was not dead yet, and SANTA CLAUS VS. CUPID was Edison's idea of a Christmas present.

THE BIRTH OF A NATION

(1914)
Restricted to the United States and Canada
Directed by D. W. Griffith

with LILLIAN GISH, HENRY B. WALTHALL, MAE MARSH, WALLACE REID, MIRIAM COOPER, ROBERT HARRON, and DONALD CRISP

From nearly the first moment it was shown in December of 1914, THE BIRTH OF A NATION changed the history of motion pictures. It established the idea of film as a serious art form, established Griffith's methods of movie storytelling as the basis of film technique, established the director as the principal creative figure in filmmaking, and established film as a force for effective propaganda. Commercially, THE BIRTH OF A NATION was the first film to be presented as a legitimate stage attraction (the best seats cost $2), with specially composed music performed at each screening by a large orchestra. THE BIRTH OF A NATION aroused a storm of controversy. Liberals and socialists condemned it, and the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People was able to force certain cuts in the film. Theatrical showings of it were picketed as recently as 1973. Thus historically, THE BIRTH OF A NATION demonstrated that movies, no less than literature or traditional theatre, could become the subject of serious social, political and ideological discussion. In this way it brought film into a position of influence in the social life of the American nation.

The Comedies of AL CHRISTIE NOW SALE PRICED!

While Mack Sennett reigned as the "King of Comedy" and Hal Roach was developing his style during the late teens, Al Christie was producing comedy shorts and earning a name for himself that would carryover into the sound era. Christie's brand of humor was more subtle than Sennett's, and like the Roach entries of the early twenties, used slapstick sparingly. Instead, a Christie comedy contained witty dialogue (or titles in the silents) and emphasized more plot development.

DANGEROUS FEMALES

(1929)
starring MARIE DRESSLER and POLLY MORAN

This is the story of the Widow Boscum (Marie Dressler) and Miss Tibby Cram (Polly Moran) who live together in a small New England Village. It's a cold winter night. The radio flashes word of a desperate convict who has escaped — but the evangelist is also due in the village. Is the stranger who knocks on the door the convict — or the evangelist?

Here is a quote from a 1929 issue of "Photoplay Magazine" in which the two-reel talking short subject, FARO NELL, was classed as one of the best pictures of the month.

"It takes something hot in the way of a two-reel talking comedy to break into this fast company of best pictures, and this Louise Fazenda howl is the bright baby. FARO NELL is a scream — an airtight, perfectly acted burlesque of the old-time Western thriller. Louise, in long yellow curls, is a panic. This is just what we've long wanted — a two-reel talkie we could bellow at."

This is a MUST for anyone who has ever thought about making a movie — home or otherwise. Here are basic principles of filmmaking simply stated and beautifully illustrated. One picture is worth a thousand words! Each well-chosen image will remind you of the things you need to make your own productions as varied, succinct and entertaining as these!

This perfect Christmas "gift" comes in a silent version with superimposed subtitles and also a sound version in which the narrator offers additional information. Both versions have high quality color and, as you would expect, provide a high degree of entertainment as well as instruction.

We enthusiastically offer HOW TO MAKE MOVIES YOUR FRIENDS WILL WANT TO SEE TWICE as a film every one should own.

starring SUNSHINE HART, RUTH HIATT

The Duffs: underweight and inept Papa, overweight and overbearing Mama, and their chubby son, are the family who wreck havoc wherever they go. Sanity goes out the window when they come in, whether it's in a duplex shared with a cop with a low boiling point or a beach where Gypsy Joe's gang is hiding out.

This Mermaid Comedy has an abundance of trick effects to keep things lively for this family you're glad isn't yours! Breakaway walls, a rigged-up car, speeded up camera action. FAMILY LIFE has them all. It's just plain old-fashioned slapstick that will take you back to the two-reelers of the early twenties. Blackhawk's prints have been made from a 35mm original, and you'll be pleased with the quality.

PUPS IS PUPS

(1930)

starring WHEEZER and JACKIE COOPER

Wheezier's affectionate little puppies are running every which way chasing bells, while Jackie Cooper has his own problems with his bratty kid sister, who, in a new dress, lumps into a large mud puddle.

PUPS IS PUPS is one of the best early talkies and certainly one of the most charming of all the "Our Gang" films.

A TOUGH WINTER

(1930)

starring FARINA and JACKIE COOPER

The Gang helps Stepin Fetchit read a love letter, then tries to assist Jackie Cooper, Farina, and Chubby in cleaning up the sloppy remnants of a misguided taffy pull — Wheezier having relayed the wrong ingredients from a radio program recipe when he calls into the kitchen "one pound of Lux."

BARGAIN DAY

(1931)

starring STYMIE and WHEEZER

Wheezier and Stymie have "the peddler's craze," which means all of Jackie Cooper's stuff is now up for sale. Wheeling their assorted merchandise down the street to a stately looking mansion, they meet a lonely little rich girl, who gladly invites them in. No one else is home. Stymie frolics around this palatial home with the little girl's pet monkey. It's no easy task, but in a whirlwind chase, the police manage to round up the "gangsters" running loose in the mansion — all except Chubby, that is, who's stuck in a reducing machine, emerging with his clothes and precious top hat rather acutely shrunken!

SATURDAY'S LESSON

(1929)

starring JOE COBB, FARINA and the "DEVIL"

The gang has been assigned chores for Saturday — Joe to chop wood — Farina to beat carpets — Mary Ann to clean up the back yard — but the lure of the neighborhood park is greater. A man dressed as the "devil" hears the gang discuss the possibility of the "Old Devil Man" getting them if they do not do their assigned work. So our costumed devil decides to do his "good turn" for the day, drops a smoke bomb in front of the gang and hops after them.

BIRTHDAY BLUES

(1932)

starring SPANKY and DICKEY MOORE

The flint-hearted father of Spanky and Dickey Moore not only forgets his wife's birthday two years in a row, but is proud of the accomplishment. With the help of Stymie and Dorothy, the boys decide to sell bites of chance in a homemade cake filled with "valuable prizes". Spanky beats the eggs, Stymie sits stirring on the stove, and Pete the pup rolls in the flour. A charming and funny lesson in humility.

DOG HEAVEN

(1929)

starring JOE COBB

This is the story of Pete and his master Joe. It seems that Pete is despondent and is going to end it all because he believes that Joe no longer loves him. What has happened is that a young vamp has come into Joe's life.

The climax comes when a baby falls from a bridge into a stream. Clarabelle says that Pete pushed the baby but a bystander identifies Pete as the child's rescuer.

THE RASCALS ON THE LAUGHS!

LITTLE MOTHER

(1929)
starring WHEEZER

A combination of pathos and comedy makes an entertaining story centered about the trials and tribulations of three small children whose mother has "gone to heaven" and their misadventures when they go in search of their "mama" and the ultimate rewarding of the unquestioning faith that she would come back to them. Pete, the dog, and Joe, the fat boy of the Little Rascals, appear prominently in the film.

① PHONEY EXPRESS

Sure enough, the villain is back, lurking in the hills ready to waylay our little heroine once again. Our hero rides the Phoney Express, leaping from one mount to the next at relay stations. Compounding his dangers, thousands of Indians menace him from behind low-lying hills on his route.

② THE UGLY DUCKLING

Paul Terry's variation on the ugly duckling story is crowded with sub-plots, the protagonist again Terry's eternal villain, the cat. As in the original fable, a duckling egg is added to the hen's clutch of eggs. Never mentioned in the original tale, Father rooster paces outside the door of Mama hen's room while she rocks the eggs in a cradle. Cracking one by one, the eggs hatch out cuddley little chicks — all but one. The ugliest of all infants clumsily breaks his way into a hostile world.

① TRANSATLANTIC FLIGHT

Is it a bird? Is it a plane? No, it's Farmer Alfalfa in a patched blimp, entrant in another contest. The prize awaiting the first to fly across the Atlantic is one million marks, a tidy sum in any country. So our Farmer is far from being a lone eagle in the sky. He's followed by the ubiquitous cat in an airborne balloon-tired car; by a flying octopus; and by other weird conveyances that astonish birds above and beasts below.

② THE BALL PARK

Never one to turn down a free gift, Farmer Alfalfa is overjoyed when a ticket to the ball game falls from the sky into his hands. Off he goes, following a resounding brass band into the ball park packed with cheering spectators.

① THE GOLD RUSH

THE GOLD RUSH features the Fables' perpetual villain, the cat; this time a wildcat in the frozen North. Terry's artists experimented with perspective in this reel, and came up with some nice scenes of figures appearing from a distance — down valleys, up hills, then diminishing in size as they disappear from view.

② FARMER AND HIS CAT

Farmer Alfalfa's adventures with the cat world start very innocently. Nightshirt on, ready for sleep, he settles into bed. His cat is already deep in dreamland performing marvelous feats of magic in his dreams.

The gregarious cat wakens at a call from his buddy outside, and slips out for a ramble. His stealthiness is for naught. Farmer Alfalfa bolts out of bed at the blood-curdling yowls from outside his window. The caterwauling is past his endurance; and the long-suffering feline uses up several of his nine lives outwitting the frustrated farmer.

Youngsters of the twenties wheedled, cajoled, coaxed — even worked — for permission and the wherewithal for Saturday afternoon at the movies — Majestic, Strand, Rialto, Princess, Orpheum — forget the name on the marquee. Theatre managers more often than not set up the same type of program — a Western or adventure/action type of feature, a serial chapter of the cliff-hanging variety, a comedy and an animated cartoon. If the Western starred Tom Mix, Buck Jones or Ken Maynard, it was the prime box office attraction. If the serial were a popular offering, it brought in the customers. But, week-in and week-out, through the twenties Paul Terry's Aesop's Fables cartoons were the staple attraction on thousands of theatre screens on Fridays and Saturdays.

Cartoons had been in evidence in the teens, but no series had lasted for very long. But the coming of the "Fables" — following World War I — set a record that no other cartoon series could challenge until the Disney cartoons of the very late twenties and the thirties — in the sound era. Terry's animal tale format was open-ended, and continued successfully for more than ten years. All the barnyard animals, even some jungle animals, made their appearances, either making life miserable for each other or for long-suffering Farmer Alfalfa. Week after week the same characters appeared on the screen; and week after week eager youngsters came back for more.

This group of cartoons by Paul Terry were the Aesop's Fables from the first year of sound, and incorporate musical scores recorded at the time in synchronization with the film. They are a special value as two different cartoons are assembled on each single reel, with adequate black leader on both picture and track area to permit their being split and assembled as to user wishes.

① AMATEUR NIGHT ON THE ARK

Terry's artists had a wonderful time creating an Arkful of animals for your enjoyment. Amateur night involves every creature that boarded the Ark — some to perform, and some to applaud. The gorilla lifts weights; the mule cavorts with a dancer on his back; three little ducks in soldier suits mock a military drill.

② ALLEY CAT

Excellent animation in this reel brings you marvelous comedy involving a team of thieving mice, a stolen egg, and an open icebox. Other mice might steal for food, but Paul Terry's mice steal for fun. An egg becomes a football, the kitchen floor their playing field, and the little thieves work out their signals. The game is soon over when a field goal kick lands with a plop on Farmer Alfalfa's head!

880-81-2723A, Super 8 magnetic sound, music 15 min., 14-ozs.
640-81-2723A, 16mm optical sound, music 15 min., 2-lbs.

① TRIP TO THE POLE

Praise be, in this reel the cat is a hero, at least for a little while. He and his navigator mouse crank up an airship in the Shenandoah Garage, and take off into the wild blue yonder in search of the North Pole. You historians will recognize the resemblance to the Navy balloon "Shenandoah", one of the early lighter-than-air ships that glided over U.S. lands and seas.

② ON THE LINKS

Everybody tries his hand, or paw at golf — and even the most avid golfer would not set foot on this nightmare course! Oh, the mice have a marvelous game, soaring off on well-hit golf balls, flying through the air with the greatest of ease. And the cat invents a polo variation, riding a rhino and swinging his masher like a mallet.

640-81-2727A 16mm optical sound, music 15 min., 2-lbs.

① ENGLISH CHANNEL SWIM

Posters for a $1000 prize for the English Channel Swim lure all the critters down to the beach — including our indefatigable Farmer Alfalfa. Even the lion and the bull join the startling line, discreetly attired in swim trunks. A more highly competitive group of entrants would be difficult to imagine.

② IN VAUDEVILLE

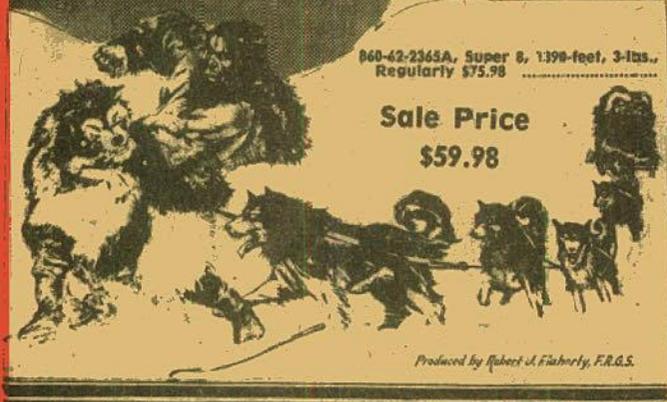

Ever see a swinging hippo who literally brings down the house? Maybe you never even thought you wanted to, but it's worth the price of admission to this mad Variety Show. So step right up, Ladies and Gentlemen, and see the chorus line, the tight rope walker, and the magic act! Special added attractions are the monkey at the keyboard, and the fantastic Strong-Cat lifting weights!

CONQUEST OF THE NORTH POLE

In CONQUEST OF THE NORTH POLE and in his other films, Melles anticipated many of the supposedly later Hollywood innovations such as trick stages, moving scenery, double exposure, miniatures, stop mov-
